

Elizabeth II Is Proclaimed British Queen

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON—With a prayer and a vow, Elizabeth II was formally proclaimed Queen today and then sped through a chill Winter's afternoon to the bier of her father.

In age old ceremonies the young ruler prayed that "God will help me to discharge worthily this heavy task that has been laid upon me." She promised to "always work as my father did" for the happiness of her peoples.

Drives To Sandringham
Then after the fanfare of trumpets, the medieval pageantry, the booming artillery salutes and the anthems of "God Save The Queen," she hastened to pay her first respects to her dead father, King George VI. She and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, drove the 130 miles to Sandringham, the royal estate where the King died in his sleep Wednesday while the Princess Elizabeth—now Queen—was in East Africa.

Today was the first chance she had to visit his bier since her arrival home. As her limousine turned in at Sandringham the Queen had a faint smile for the policeman standing at salute at the gate. A crowd of about 200 was waiting.

Inside, her dead father lay in an oak casket in a dimly lighted bedroom, dressed in his favorite uniform of an admiral of the fleet. Trumpets pealed as a medieval-

Used Car Sales Levy Debated

LANSING — (P)—The twice-defeated "used car use tax" met only token Democratic opposition as it swung through debate in the Senate yesterday.

It is due for a vote Monday night.

The measure has been substantially revised since the past two sessions when it passed the Senate and was defeated in the House.

Senator James Teahen (R-Owosso) conceded on the Senate floor that it was designed carefully to take away about $4,200,000 now going to the schools and local governments through the three per cent sales tax diversion and put an estimated $12,000,000 in the state's nearly-bankrupt general fund. He said only the state supreme court could tell whether the maneuver was legal.

The measure would impose a special excise tax of three per cent, Teahen said, on the use of used cars. The tax would be imposed at the time the title to a car was transferred from one buyer to another.

To remove Democrats' bitter objections that it was a tax on "the little fellow," the bill has been re-drafted to exempt so-called "isolated" sales, those between two individuals.

It would cover only sales to or by licensed dealers but an individual who sold more than two cars in one year would be considered a dealer.

The Senate passed a House-approved bill requiring persons involved in gun accidents to report to the police immediately and to give all possible assistance to injured persons.

It approved a measure permitting counties and municipalities to operate public markets jointly and allowing graded school districts to annex adjoining township school districts.

Winnie Ruth Returns To Hospital, Admits She Had Outside Help

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(P)—Trunk murderer, Winnie Ruth Judd, scratched and battered looking, returned voluntarily to the state mental hospital under mysterious circumstances last night.

She surrendered at the home of the hospital superintendent with the brief comment: "Well, I'm back."

It was the fifth escape for the fading "Tiger Woman" who 21 years ago killed two girl friends and shipped their dismembered bodies to Los Angeles.

Dr. M. W. Conway the hospital superintendent, said Mrs. Judd, apparently was helped by persons who were very young, possibly teenagers, in making her escape.

Dr. Conway stated in an interview that Mrs. Judd wouldn't tell who helped her.

"But I surmised from what she said that they were not only young, but there was more than one of them."

Picks Lock In Door
He said he had pieced together the following story of what had happened to the scratched, bruised and tired woman:

She picked a lock on the door leading to a third story tower in her ward Saturday night while other patients were watching television, climbed the stairs and went down an improvised rope of restraining straps.

The rope broke while she was still 12 to 15 feet from the ground.

Reuther Backer Fired By Union

DETROIT — (P)—The CIO United Auto Workers union has fired T. Arthur Johnstone, a long-time supporter of President Walter Reuther, as director of its General Motors department.

Johnstone told reporters that reasons for his ouster were "poorly founded," but he would not elaborate. Johnstone said he had made no plans for the future and still was drawing his UAW pay check.

John W. Livingston, UAW vice-president, was named to succeed Johnstone.

The ouster came as a surprise. Johnstone succeeded Reuther as head of the union's GM department, getting the job when Reuther gave it up to devote full time to the UAW presidency. He supported Reuther's successful bid for union president in 1946 and had supported him since.

Johnstone was a chief negotiator when GM and the UAW entered into their historic cost-of-living contract in 1948 and again in drafting a five-year contract in 1950.

Shopper Suspect Hanged With Stocking

GRAND RAPIDS—(P)—A woman prisoner, arrested on a shoplifting charge, hanged herself last night in the Kent county jail.

Officers identified her as Fae Sarber, 46, of Route 1, Hudsonville. Jail attendants said she hanged herself with a silk stocking and a scarf tied together.

She had been accused of taking a purse worth $10 from a downtown store. Police said she tried to jump out of a window at police headquarters while being questioned. Detectives restrained her after she had rammed her head through a window.

Grand Jury Inquiry
On Upper Peninsula
Crime Is Scheduled

GRAND RAPIDS—(P)—Federal Judge Raymond W. Starr has convened a new federal grand jury for March 4 to investigate any organized crime in western Michigan and the Upper Peninsula.

He acted yesterday on receipt of a request from U. S. Attorney Joseph F. Deeb for a grand jury.

The term of the federal grand jury now sitting expires March 6 and Judge Starr said "it does not seem practical" for this body to start a widespread probe before that date.

Plans for the forthcoming grand jury inquiry were discussed recently at a meeting of federal law enforcement officers in Detroit.

46 Cars Unclaimed

JACKSON — (P)—Forty-six automobiles towed off the streets to make way for snow removal operations several weeks ago still are unclaimed and will be sold at public auction in March. Police Chief Harry H. Bailes said most were worth barely the $50 to $100 storage charges they have run up since being impounded.

Communists Haggle Over Return Of War Prisoners

Red Airfields In Korea Still Potent Menace

By SAM SUMMERLIN and
O. H. P. KING

TOKYO — (P)—Lt. Gen. Otto P. Weyland says if Allied air strikes are halted the Reds could mount a tremendous jet armada from North Korean airfields within 30 days.

The Far East Air Forces commander said in an interview yesterday the Communists have 15 good airfields which could be put into shape without much engineering effort.

General Shuts Up
All are located near supply points such as railroads or seaports, he added.

The Reds have insisted on the right to rebuild airfields during an armistice.

Weyland and his air force generals opposed this—until Allied negotiations offered to compromise and let the Reds rebuild some airfields for civilian use only.

Then Weyland and the others shut up.

But the general pointed out today that commercial airfields could be converted to military airbases simply by supplying them with gas, oil and bombs.

Could Make Repairs
Then—if the Reds broke the truce—United Nations ground forces in Korea would be faced with a real threat from the air for the first time.

Repeated Allied bombings have destroyed the usefulness of such fields as Namsi, Saamchon, Taechon and Uiju—all in northwest Korea and all with 6,000 feet runways suited to Communist jet operations.

But during a truce the Allied bombers would stay at home and the fields could be repaired.

Groups Formed To Promote Ike

NEW YORK — (P)—National headquarters of "Citizens for Eisenhower" were opened here yesterday with Arthur H. Vandenberg Jr. of Grand Rapids, Mich., in charge.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R-Mass), manager of the presidential campaign for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, appeared at the opening of the organization. It is a group separate from the Eisenhower campaign headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Vandenberg, national chairman of Citizens for Eisenhower, said the new organization was "a move to consolidate the mass sentiment that has already expressed itself on behalf of Gen. Eisenhower" for the Republican presidential nomination.

Vandenberg said Mrs. Oswald Bates Lord of New York City will serve as national co-chairman of Citizens for Eisenhower. Mrs. Lord was chairman of the national civilian advisory committee for the Women's Army Corps during World War II.

Former economic cooperation administrator Paul G. Hoffman was the first person to enroll all the new headquarters as an Eisenhower supporter, Vandenberg reported.

Hoffman was appointed chairman of an advisory committee of Citizens for Eisenhower. Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, former commander of the WAVES and president of Wellesley College, was named co-chairman.

Kelly Says He Won't Oppose Sen. Moody

DETROIT — (P)—Former Gov. Harry F. Kelly says he is not going to race Sen. Moody (D-Mich) for his Senate seat.

Kelly, a Republican, said yesterday he had no plans to run against Moody, who was appointed to the Senate by Gov. Williams on the death of Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Kelly, a two-term governor, had been considered an outstanding GOP opponent for Moody. Kelly lost to Gov. Williams in a bid for another term as governor in 1950.

Russians May Answer
Charge Of Murdering
10,000 Polish Officers

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON—(P)—Chairman Madden (D-Ind.) said today the Russians may get a chance to answer charges before his special House committee that they massacred 10,000 Polish officers during World War II.

Madden told newsmen that he personally thought the committee should send an official letter to the Soviet embassy here offering to hear the Russian version. Madden's suggestion has not yet been considered by the full committee.

The special group has concluded four days of open hearings on the massacres in Katyn forest, Russia, during late 1939 and early 1940. The hearings will be resumed in a week or 10 days.

Polish and American witnesses have testified that the Russians shot down their prisoners in an effort to destroy Poland's intelligentsia.

Henry Cassidy, former chief of the Associated Press bureau in Moscow, described to the committee yesterday a trip to Katyn with a party of foreign correspondents in mid-January, 1944. He said Soviet officials tried to convince foreign correspondents that the Germans were responsible for the killings. Cassidy now is news editor of NBC.

Plump Ex-Governor Of Georgia Accepts
Thankless OPS Job

By WILLIAM O. VARN
WASHINGTON — (P)—Ellis Gibbs Arnall, Georgia's plump little ex-governor, today was headed for a big new job as the nation's price boss—a job he labelled "tough, unpopular and thankless."

But someone has got to do it, Arnall said.

President Truman sent to the Senate yesterday the nomination of the 44-year-old southerner to be director of the Office of Price Stabilization.

Post Pays $16,000
Several Senators predicted little or no opposition to Arnall's confirmation for the $16,000 a year post. Arnall would succeed Michael V. DiSalle who is quitting Feb. 15 to seek the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate in Ohio.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate banking committee tentatively scheduled hearings on Arnall's nomination next Tuesday. Maybank said he knew of no opposition at this time.

Friends of Arnall said they took his acceptance of the OPS job to mean that he is convinced, in his own mind at least, that Truman will seek re-election. They represented him as being unwilling to accept "an unpopular job" for a short time.

Abolished Chain Gangs
To accept the post, Arnall will take leave of absence from his $25,000-a-year job as president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, from his law practice in Atlanta and from his presidency of an insurance firm. He is married and has two children.

A native of Newnan, Ga., Arnall was governor of his state from 1943 to 1947. Prior to that he had been attorney general and speaker of the House of Representatives. As governor he instituted a number of reforms in Georgia, including revision of its pardon and parole system and abolishment of its infamous chain gangs.

DiSalle praised the selection of Arnall and said:

"I'll be very happy to turn the job over to him."

Closest Friends
Predict Truman
Won't Run Again

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON — (P)—President Truman's announcement that he is going to let the political river take its course, with a little steering now and then, was interpreted in some administration circles today as indicating he does not plan to run again.

It has been learned authoritatively by this reporter that some of Truman's closest friends now do not believe, he will seek re-nomination—barring unforeseen developments.

Ike's Chances Slim
One of these friends, who can not be named, told me that while the President apparently hasn't confided his decision to anyone, the inner circle of his associates looks for him to step aside at the proper time and name his choice for the nomination.

The President was said to feel the chances are diminishing that the Republicans will nominate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Believing as he does that Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio is the likely GOP choice, Truman was reported to feel that the Democrats have a good chance to win next November's election. If that looks reasonably certain, friends said Truman will be happy to retire from the scene.

The President was depicted as realizing that some other northern Democratic candidate would be likely to command more support in the south than he could because of the antagonism over his civil rights program.

On the other hand, Truman apparently is fully cognizant of the widespread view among Democratic leaders that he is their best candidate—as of now.

As part of his program of letting the political river take its course, he seemingly is giving some other Democrats their chance to demonstrate what they can do. This may apply to Senator Kerr (D-Okla.), in a limited way, and to Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

But there seems a strong determination within the close circle of Truman friends that the nominee won't be Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn) if they can help it. They feel Kefauver would not appeal to the South and would have only partial support from the party's self-styled "Liberals."

Kefauver has challenged Truman in the March 11 New Hampshire primary. And it is there that the President told a news conference yesterday he will let the river take its course.

He broadened this immediately to say it covers the whole political waterfront, adding he sometimes puts a few walls in the way of the river—or throws a dam across it to change its course.

This seemed to be another implication that if he believes the river is running toward the nomination of a man he doesn't want, he will step in to direct its flow either to the man of his choice or to himself.

Potter Requests $308,000 Harbor Job At Manistique

WASHINGTON — (P)—Rep. Potter (R-Mich.) seeks a $308,000 appropriation to enable the Army engineers to deepen the harbor at Manistique, Mich.

"This project is of a definite emergency nature," he testified yesterday before a House Appropriations Subcommittee studying Army civil functions.

"There is nothing pork - barrel about it. The existing depths at Manistique harbor are inadequate to serve commerce safely and economically."

Potter said the ledge rock at the bottom of the channel breaks off into blocks three to four feet thick, endangering shipping to such an extent that coal vessels charge premium rates on cargoes delivered there.

Manistique is situated on the north shore of Lake Michigan at the mouth of the Manistique River.

Globemaster Plunges
On Runway; 16 Escape

MCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash.—(P)—A C-124 Globemaster, the biggest operational troop carrier used by the Air Force, crashed and burned here late last night, but the 16 men aboard escaped.

The giant aircraft, attached to the 62nd troop carrier wing, was enroute home from Hawaii with a crew of 13 and 3 passengers. Air base officials said the plane crashed short of a runway.

Only two crew members were injured, receiving minor cuts and bruises. Air base officials said a ground fog may have contributed to the accident.

The Globemaster can accommodate 200 passengers.

Two Convicted In Court Cases

In circuit court trials yesterday verdicts of guilty were delivered against Wilfred Cole, in a game law violation appealed from justice court and against Herman G. Fenske on the second offense of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Jurors in the Fenske case heard testimony yesterday afternoon of four witnesses supporting the People's charges that in the early morning of Aug. 17, 1951, Fenske was driving his automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Testimony brought out that it was the second such charge brought against Fenske and that as a result of the first one, he was issued a restricted driver's license with which he was operating his vehicle on the morning in question.

Denied Intoxication

The defendant denied in testimony that he was driving under the influence of alcohol at the time of his arrest Aug. 17, 1951, but testified to the fact that he had had alcoholic beverages that night.

Counsel for the defense Robert E. LeMire called to the stand George Brodd, proprietor of the Welcome Inn where Fenske had consumed some alcohol prior to his arrest, character witnesses Elmer Nelson and George Lafrenier, and City Engineer Loren Jenkins in support of the defendant.

State witnesses were the arresting officers, Ralph Johnson and George DeLoughery of the Escanaba police force; Herbert Carlson, police desk sergeant at the time of Fenske's apprehension; and Eileen Johnson, records clerk in the office of Justice Henry E. Rangnette.

Cole Convicted
In another afternoon action, the jury submitted a verdict of guilty in the case of Wilfred Cole, charged with having in his possession in his automobile a shotgun and buckshot while driving through a deer-inhabiting area three days prior to the opening of deer season.

After the testimony of two state witnesses, Glenn Price and Leonard Lambie, conservation officers, and that of the defendant, who supplied his own defense, the jury deliberated approximately one hour and returned a verdict of guilty.

Sentencing of both men was tentatively scheduled by Circuit Judge Glenn W. Jackson for this afternoon.

Jurors who heard the Fenske case included Harold Walk, Roy Estenson, Ann Tittsworth, Mrs. Viola Bjurman, Wilber Cowell, Lawrence St. Ours, George Pepin, Vernon Peterson, Edith Weingartner, Mary A. Fontaine, Edna J. Ambau and Willard LaFond.

Three Named To Plan Commission

Dale Vinette was reappointed to the city planning commission by the city council last evening and Joseph Ivins and Richard Hoyler were named to succeed O. V. Thatcher and J. F. Bartlett on the commission.

The terms of Thatcher, Bartlett and Vinette recently expired. Thatcher and Bartlett reported that they did not desire reappointment.

The council approved a request from Frank D. Lindenthal of radio station WDBC for a reduction in rent of the property site of the station's studio at Sand Point, owned by the city. The broadcasting company owns the building but the city owns the land.

Sell Three Forties

Under terms of the lease, the rent of $120 per year in force for the first five years, now expired, would have increased to $240 per year for the remaining 20 years of the lease. The council agreed to retain the rent at $120 per year.

The council accepted the low bid of Standard Oil company of 13.863c per gallon, net, for gasoline to be used by the city.

A bid of $1028 for stumpage at the city dump grounds, received from Arthur J. DeGrand, also was accepted by the city.

The bids for three 40-acre plots of land owned by the city were accepted by the council as follows: Peter Jaeger, $525, for one parcel; Gilbert Stendahl, $1250, for a second parcel; and Peter Jaeger, $575 for a third parcel.

The council approved a change in the zoning of a piece of land between North 9th and 10th avenues, across from the state fairgrounds, to commercial, and a change from local business to Class A residential property located at 18th avenue south and Lake Shore Drive.

A proposal to vacate streets and alleys at the proposed site of Catholic Central high school also was received by the council and the first meeting in March set as a date for hearing objections.

The new electric light and power plant, the new gas plant, new pavement for Ludington Street partly paid for before going in deeper. Our City has not grown in the past ten years because people can live just outside the City limits and save considerable tax money. Do we want to drive still more away with still higher taxes, thereby making it still harder on those taxpayers who remain?

People who plan to build new homes, will think twice about building in our City, after they see the high tax rate they will have to pay. New industries, too, will hesitate about building their factories here for the same reason. Those that usually have been writing testimonial letters in favor of the School Bond issue are financially independent and an increase in their taxes doesn't mean anything. This is not true with the man who works for a living at hard labor, in overalls, and has a large family to feed.

Sincerely yours,
Peter Silbernegel,

Forum Stresses Rotary Service

The service of Rotarians as individuals and clubs to profession and community and nation, and through Rotary International to the cause of peace and good will around the world was emphasized in Escanaba yesterday at an inter-city Rotary forum at the Delta hotel.

Representatives from clubs in Gladstone, Menominee, Iron Mountain, Munising, Marquette, Ishpeming and Manistique in the Upper Peninsula and Marinette, Wis., participated in the forum. The Escanaba Rotary club was host.

It was one of a series in the Rotary district comprising the Upper Peninsula and Northern Wisconsin.

Aim Of Service

Russell Watson, district governor, of Manistique, and Richmond Mayson, Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, Canada, members of Rotary International's advisory committee, are attending all of the inter-city Rotary forums.

Mayson as forum leader stressed the importance of Rotary service at the local, national and international level. He conducted forum sessions yesterday afternoon and in the evening following a dinner at the Delta hotel. Mayson was introduced by District Governor Watson and Dr. Roy B. Johnson, president of the Escanaba Rotary club, presided.

Entertainment following the dinner included group singing and songs by the Fourtissimos, a quartet of the Escanaba chapter of Barber Shop singers.

"League of Men"

Mayson called upon Rotarians to exemplify in personal life the Rotary ideal of service. There are many opportunities for service in the professions, in business, in the club and community and around the world, he said.

Rotary International with its membership of 350,000 in 83 countries of the world was described by Mayson as "an effective league of men gathering in a spirit of giving rather than in selfishly seeking for themselves."

"If we could spread that feeling farther throughout the world, there would be no cold war," he declared.

Rotary, correspondence, visiting speakers, and an international exchange of students is Rotary International's active program to promote peace and understanding, Mayson pointed out.

Through Rotary Foundation Fellowships in 1952 there will be about 100 American young people provided with scholarships for one year of study in a foreign country; and an equal number of foreign students will come to the United States.

District Governor Watson said that he will propose to the coming spring Rotary district convention that in addition to the Rotary Foundation Fellowship scholarships, that the Rotary district also sponsor a scholarship for a qualified young man or woman of the district.

The Terrible Story of WHITTAKER CHAMBERS

Here is a measure of the true dimensions of the Communist threat to America. Here is the inside report on espionage in top government circles. Here is Whittaker Chambers' own story of his life, of the Red spy ring in Washington, of the Hiss Case. It is one of the most remarkable documents of our time. It is more than a spy story. It is more than a confession. It is an eloquent and vivid definition of the two forces which are today warring for the mind of man.

Public High School To Have At Least 800 Pupils In '63

A chart showing present school enrollment in Escanaba schools, public and parochial, and projections for future years through 1965 indicates school enrollment will jump from the present 3320 to nearly 4600 by 1964.

The public high school anticipates an enrollment of at least 800 students by 1963.

The Escanaba birth rate for the past six years shows an average of 395 new children each year. Assuming that 350 will reach high school age each year, there will be 1050 children of senior high school age, grades 10-12, by 1963.

About one-half of these children will be non-Catholic, providing 525 resident pupils in the public high school from this source alone. In addition, Catholic authorities report an anticipated enrollment in the Catholic high school of 70 percent of the Catholic students. The remainder will go to the public high school, increasing the total to 680 resident pupils.

The prospective industrial growth indicates even more children than now anticipated.

Township students number 166 and it is estimated that this number will increase to at least 200. With the 680 resident pupils and the 200 township pupils, the public school may reach a total enrollment of 880 in the upper three grades. For purposes of conservatism, however, the projections estimate the 1963 total at 800, rather than 880.

"Dear Patrons:

"A questionnaire on which you may evaluate the job being done currently by your board of education, administrators, and the teachers of your youngsters, will be given to you shortly.

"The success in evaluating such questionnaires, and making their distribution worthwhile, depends wholly on the sincerity with which they are treated, and the adequacy in numbers of responses.

"When you receive your "How Would You Answer This" questionnaire, please give it your thoughtful consideration, answer all questions on which you feel adequately informed, feel free to express opinions, and return it as promptly as possible.

"You can help us in this way to do a better job in adjusting to specific needs and wants of those whom we always endeavor to serve to the best of our ability, your children, and our students.

Sincerely,
Walter C. Peters,

Reshuffling Judicial Districts In Entire U. P. Gains Attention

REP. GOULETTE'S bill for dividing the 25th judicial district in two has run into a snag in the Legislature.

The plan advocated by Delta county attorneys, calling for reshuffling of all of the judicial districts in the Upper Peninsula, has received considerable interest among the lawmakers. It is the kind of proposal that would appeal to most legislators because it bears promise of solving the judicial problem without increasing costs.

To divide the 25th district into two circuits means, of course, the addition of another judge. Yet there are some districts in the peninsula where the court load is not heavy. If all the districts in the Upper Peninsula were reshuffled, it would be possible to balance the work load of all judges and eliminate the need for another judgeship.

Many legislators believe that the time is at hand for reshuffling judicial districts not only in the Upper Peninsula but throughout the state. However, proponents believe that the Upper Peninsula districts should be reshuffled first and the Lower Peninsula problem attacked later. Everybody agrees, however, that Judge Glenn Jackson's work load in five counties and embracing a total population of 150,000 persons is far too heavy and that relief must be provided. The district is the largest in the state and is larger even than many districts with two judges.

Income Equality More Prevalent Here

ONE of the great but false boasts of the Soviet Union is that the Communist regime has built a society in which people are more nearly equal in income than anywhere else in the world.

The truth is that American capitalism, which the Reds revile as the exploiter of ordinary humanity, has gone farther than any other economic-political system to narrow the spread between the highest and lowest incomes.

Even Socialist Britain, with its determined effort to achieve this very end, has not succeeded as have we in the United States.

Obviously the reason cannot be because the rich in this country are less rich than the most privileged in Russia and Britain.

The British have systematically sought to cut down the wealthy, and the top bracket Russians, though far better off than they want the people to realize, don't range very high by American standards.

The real story, as pointed out recently by Peter F. Drucker in the Saturday Evening Post, is that the "poor" people of the United States are so much more fortunate economically than the wretched lower classes of Europe and Asia.

The National Bureau of Economic Research, an outfit studying long range trends and not given to spectacular statements, calls what has happened to America's average individual incomes in the past 25 years "one of the greatest social revolutions in history."

More than 50 per cent of America's families now have what is considered a "middle class" income. Back around 1900, only 25 per cent of the families were that well off.

And these gains have been made despite a notable inflation that finds the 1952 dollar worth roughly one third of the 1900 dollar.

For instance, the yearly income of the average U. S. factory worker has zoomed to $3000 today, against about $500 at the turn of the century.

That's a sixfold advance, and means his real income has doubled despite the cheapening of the dollar.

Drucker calls attention to another striking trend that is lifting up this country's lower income groups and diminishing the range between high and low.

This is the remarkable tendency of ordinary folk to participate in the ownership of the country's largest businesses.

The Bell Telephone System now has 1,000,000 stockholders. Of these, some 200,000 are company employees. Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has 220,000 stockholders, including many workers.

Altogether, 15,000,000 Americans, one out of every 10 men, women and children, are today stock owners. In other words, they have a financial stake themselves in the operation of our capitalist economy.

If you add to these all the people who have a share in business indirectly, through savings deposits and life insurance payments which afford business a prime source of capital, you get a much larger figure.

So the country which Communists—and Socialists too—constantly exorcise as the depolarizer of the masses is in fact doing far better by the masses than the enemies of capitalism have any hope of doing.

The kind of equality they talk about is the kind we already have and are steadily getting more of.

The sort the Reds are achieving is largely accomplished by leveling the top brackets, except for the privileged few of the ruling regime.

It is a destructive process that seeks to make a virtue of "organized depression."

Our increasing economic equality is attained not by leveling but by raising up the low brackets toward a standard of genuine well-being for all.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—President Truman is holding his political cards so close to his chest that not even his closest associates at the White House know his plans.

Even Charley Murphy, good-natured White House assistant, confessed to a friend the other day: "I don't know any more than the man in the moon whether Mr. Truman is going to run."

Actually, the President seems to enjoy playing a card game with both his staff and visitors. At one moment, Mr. Truman will put on a long face and describe in great detail the trials of being president. A frequent remark is: "Two terms will kill any man."

The next minute, the President will casually comment how he is looking forward to a grass-roots campaign in the fall, and slyly watch his guest's startled reaction. This on-again-off-again, keep-'em-guessing game was partly behind his final decision to leave his name in the New Hampshire primary. The other reason was the pleas of Democratic leaders in New Hampshire that they would lose their places on the state and national committees if he did not leave his name in.

Best guess of Mr. Truman's intimates is that he is carefully laying the groundwork for a "Draft Truman" campaign after the boomlets for all the other candidates have run their course.

ARMY WASTE

Here is another painful example of how the Army wastes the taxpayers' money—the story of Commerce International, Inc., which got a $3,400,000 contract from the Rock Island arsenal for reconditioning tanks.

It seems hard to believe, but Commerce International got the contract despite the fact that it had no experience in reconditioning tanks, and despite the fact that it had few facilities except some space rented from Cramp's shipyard in Philadelphia.

The company was formed by a young ex-Air Force lieutenant, S. G. Fassoulis. Once he had talked himself into the contract, Fassoulis rounded up welders and technicians and went to work. However, lack of technical skill bogged him down and resulted in costly delays.

Luckily for Fassoulis, however, the army failed to deliver certain parts on schedule, so he had the consummate nerve to turn round and blame the Army for the delay. On top of this, believe it or not, he demanded $817,000,000 in damages.

The Army refused to pay. Nevertheless Fassoulis' counterclaim had the desired effect. He got off the hook for defaulting on his contract.

But here is the real joker.

INSPECTOR GENERAL SAID NO

This column is able to reveal that Fassoulis was awarded the $3,400,000 contract by the Army against the advice of the Army's inspector general.

The inspector general had checked Commerce International, found it was involved in some juicy deals of war surplus to Nationalist China.

One deal that didn't go through was for 25 P-51s, which Commerce International was trying to sell to China at double the normal cost. The contract was cancelled when the Chinese found the planes to be little better than junk.

Commerce International was also involved in smuggling airplane parts to Formosa. But when the Army confronted Fassoulis with this record, he blandly claimed it was Communist propaganda, argued he had gone into the business of supplying Nationalist China not for profit but for patriotic reasons.

He even made the amazing statement that he had supplied Chiang Kai-Shek with $12,600,000 worth of military equipment for less than $2,000,000. He failed to explain how he could afford to take the difference between $12,600,000 and $2,000,000 as a loss.

Despite this record, the Army ignored the inspector general and gave Fassoulis its tank-reconditioning contract—only later to have him fall flat.

JOE AND HERMAN

Sen. Herman Welker, the Idaho freshman, protested loudly at a closed-door Rules Committee meeting that he was no "McCarthy stooge."

The outburst came after Welker was named to the subcommittee to investigate the tactics of his buddy, Joe McCarthy.

"I don't know what to tell my daughter when she hears all these things the columnists and commentators are calling me," the senator from Idaho complained.

Looking around the committee for a sympathetic face, he noticed Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

"Why, I'm no more biased in favor of McCarthy than Mrs. Smith," he said.

NOTE—Mrs. Smith is the author of the famous "Statement of Conscience" opposing McCarthy's smear tactics, and had favored an investigation of McCarthy from the very first.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Moscow—Harassed by Red army raids as far back as 75 miles behind their lines, the German armies before Smolensk were offering fierce resistance at points where Adolf Hitler hoped to originate his spring offensive.

Washington, D. C.—A two-million man air force—the world's largest—was announced as the army's eventual objective with half that number to be mustered before the end of the year.

Escanaba—Seaman 1/C Edward J. Gerou, who enlisted in the Navy Jan. 30, was stationed at Bishop's Point, Oahu, Territory of Hawaii.

Escanaba—The Knights of Columbus and Daughters of Isabella were sponsoring a get-together party in St. Patrick's parish hall.

Phoenix, Ariz.—Winnie Ruth Judd was speedily convicted of murder after a 14-day trial and the death penalty was prescribed by an all-male jury which heard her trial for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Anne LeRoy, her friend.

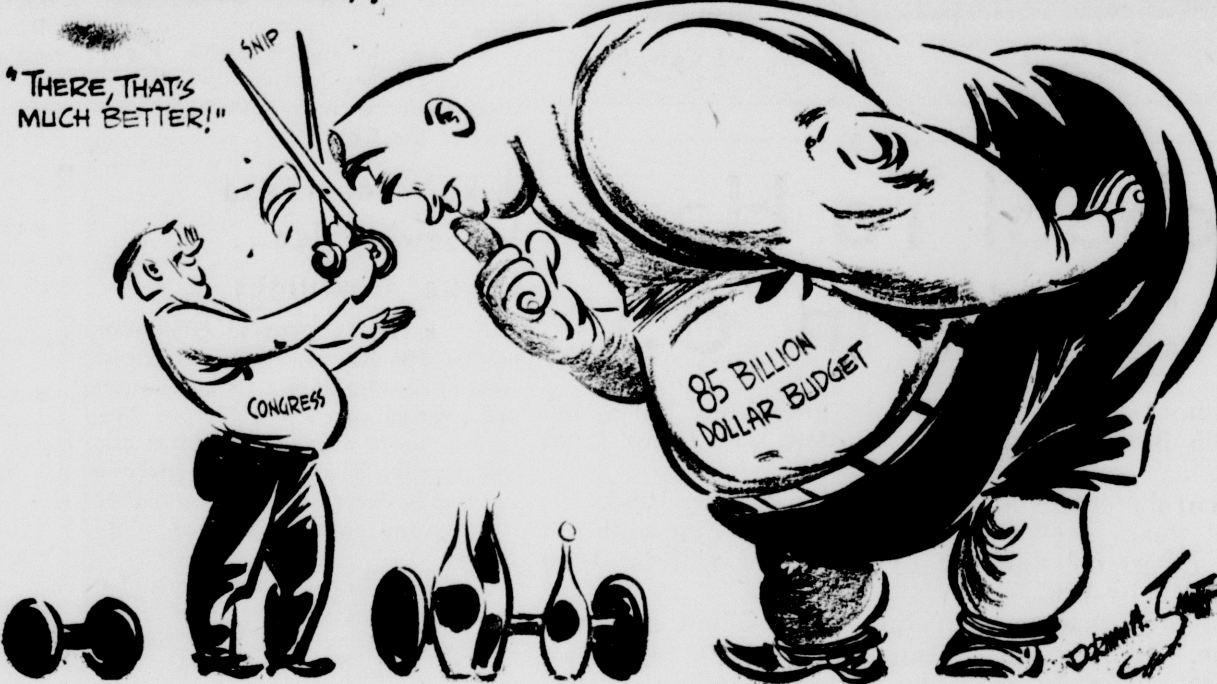

Geneva, Switzerland—Solemn warnings that the failure of the armament conferences would bring about a world disaster were heard by spokesmen of Great Britain and France but they differed about the way to safety.

Jones Boys, Twins, Eat Bullets But Record Korean War On Film

By WADE (No Relation) JONES

NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK —(NEA)—When the Jones boys twins left their newspaper photographer jobs in Washington, D. C., about a year and a half ago to shoot TV movies of the Korean War, somebody decided to give them a farewell party. That was a mistake.

With characteristic enterprise, the Joneses rigged up a time bomb to go off shortly after they had left the office party for the airport. The resulting blast smashed a chair to smithereens, upset a desk, and reduced an assistant editor to near hysteria.

A trail of such explosions—sometimes figurative, often literal—seem to follow the hair-brained, 26-year-olds wherever they go. Recently that's included the Far East, the Middle East, Europe, Africa, and Alaska.

NBC hired the twins, Gene and Charlie, on the basis of their World War II experience as Marines, to shoot the up-front war in Korea. They shot the movies, all right, and in return got shot.

Forty minutes after going in with the first wave of Marines at Inchon, Gene was hit in the stomach by mortar fragments. Seriously wounded, he managed to crawl 500 yards down the beach and persuade a Marine to deliver his precious film.

Nine days later Charlie was hit in the left knee while inching his way with the infantry into embattled Seoul. They pressed their luck further by jumping behind enemy lines with the paratroopers.

Now they've written a book with pictures on the Korean war, and it's a pip. Harry, how the money rolls in!

But once a Marine, always a Marine, and their love of loves is the infantry. They are still just dogfaces in double-breasted suits. They are afraid of nothing that walks, talks or breathes and that includes their boss, Frank McCall.

One day last Summer they confronted McCall in his office.

"We want to go to the Pole," Gene announced.

McCall groaned and slid down

ONCE A MARINE, always a Marine, applies to the Jones twins, here in action in Korea, where Charlie (left) dropped his cameras to help a wounded soldier who died before they could get him to safety. Brother Gene was in there fighting, too.

in his chair. "Which one?" he asked.

"North," said Gene.

"Why?"

"Cause we ain't ever been there."

"Oh."

Ten days later they were in Alaska. "We couldn't get right to the Pole because it was restricted or something," Gene says, "but we borrowed a helicopter off'n an admiral and came right down on top of a polar bear. Wonderful stuff."

Shortly after the twins got back from Korea, NBC decided to send them to Europe, as if Europe didn't have enough trouble the way it was.

In Greece, when the twins rigged up their electrical movie apparatus, they blew every fuse in the palace. "Charlie had to swipe the batteries out of the king's Cadillac," Gene relates. "But it was OK. I made him put 'em back."

In Norway, Gene had Crown Prince Olav helping him roll up about 100 feet of electrical wiring. Asked how Gene enlisted the royal aid, Charlie says: "All I know is I heard Gene tell the Prince, 'Damn, Prince, there sure is a lot of wire around here, ain't there?'"

Gene sums up their experiences with kings and the like with a cryptic, "Aw, hell, you know how kings are."

Let you get the idea the Joneses are dummies, be disabused. They're not. What they are is a couple of very sincere, earnest guys trying to do a job the best way they know how. They hate sham and pretense to such an extent that they seem to confuse good grammar with affection.

They wrote the 25,000-word text for their book, "The Face of War," in four days and nights in a hotel room in Frankfurt, Germany. The publishers touched hardly a word of it. It's as powerful and vivid and honest as anything that ever came out of a war. It makes your skin crawl. It makes you want to go out and give a pint of blood or something to help those poor, miserable, frozen Jews who are fighting our war for us.

Last Summer Gene married a pretty lass who is connected with the news show the twins shoot their stuff for. The alliance has made everybody happy.

The three of them were attending a big hoopitido recently at which the twins were receiving a top camera award. The master-of-ceremonies slipped up and referred to Natalie as Charlie's wife.

Unaware of a microphone near him, Charlie rasped out, "Wish to hell she was." At least he says he didn't know the mike was there. The crowd loved it.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

IN THE BALANCE.—Rep. Charles E. Potter (R) of the 11th Congressional district, which includes Delta county, has not committed himself in connection with the coming congressional vote on Universal Military Training.

In reply to letters from his constituents opposing UMT and requesting that he vote against the bill, Rep. Potter wrote that he has not made up his mind and will not do so until all the evidence is in.

As you may know, UMT is not an accomplished fact as military leaders would have you believe. The idea in principle was approved last year by Congress; but it must come before them for final action.

That final decision by Congress is scheduled this month following a report by the House Armed Services committee—which plunked for UMT by a vote of 27 to 7.

WHAT IT IS—Universal Military Training, stripped to its essentials, provides:

For the induction for six months of training of all eligible males when they become 18 years of age; and after serving six months, the trainees would be liable for reserve duty for seven and one-half years.

Many arguments have been presented for and against Universal Military Training or any form of compulsory military training in peacetime.

IMPORTANT DEBATE—With some exceptions (including Gen. Douglas MacArthur) the military is for UMT; the war veterans organizations favor it; as do some political leaders.

Against UMT stand millions of Americans of all denominations, classes and colors, who do not want control of American youth and the education and indoctrination of American youth by the military.

The debates for and against compulsory military training are among the most important in the history of the nation. The future course of our country can be one of democratic freedom or autocratic militarism—depending on the rejection or adoption of UMT by Congress this month.

POWER AND PEACE—It is the contention of military leaders and those favoring UMT that unless compulsory military training becomes a part of the American way of life, freedom will die through failure of national defense.

Power is the best insurance of peace, they claim. But they overlook the arguments of the opposition that the United States has been and is now powerful militarily without UMT—that extension of military control through a program of compulsory training would weaken rather than strengthen this nation.

Supporting their argument is the unhappy history of Germany under Hitler, Italy under Mussolini, France under Napoleon, and Japan under its dominating war leaders.

LET HIM KNOW—The hour of decision is nearing on whether UMT is or is not to become part and parcel of this government by, of and for the people. That decision will vitally affect our people, our economy, our happiness, our freedom and our future.

Rep. Potter has not yet made up his mind whether he will vote to adopt or reject the Universal Military Training bill.

He is, therefore, open on the subject. His decision will be made in part by what he hears from the people in his district—the people "back home" who all too often fail to understand their responsibility as individual citizens.

Organized support or opposition is often vocal and forceful, but elected representatives of the people are prone to consider long and carefully the letter from the individual citizen who helped elect him.

Your communications concerning Universal Military Training may be addressed to Hon. Charles E. Potter, Member of Congress, House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

A FEW WORDS ABOUT YOUR MIND

Are you an "extravert" or an "introvert"? Don't be insulted by the question; these are not fighting words. They are just some of the words used by psychologists and which occur now and then in stories.

If you are an "extravert" (EX-truh-vert), it is nothing to be ashamed of, and you can determine it for yourself. Hence, if your thoughts and interests "turn outward" from yourself to other persons and other affairs, you are an extravert. The direction of one's outward interest is "extraversion" (ex-truh-VUR-zhun or -shun).

But if your interests and thoughts strongly concern yourself, are focussed upon your own emotions and imaginations, you are an "introvert" (IN-truh-vurt), a word formed from Latin "intro," inwardly, and "verso," the direction of this self-interest is "introversion" (in-truh-VUR-zhun or -shun). This, too, is nothing to be ashamed of, but, if either condition becomes extreme, either one may produce a disordered mental state that will require skilled treatment.

These and all other forces or energies that drive an individual to be what he is and to do what he does are grouped together by the modern psychologist into the word "libido" (li-BY-do). This is a Latin word which means desire, or lust, because the word was used by early psychologists to denote instincts associated with the word "love."

Incidentally, because someone apparently got the notion that "introversion" was formed from "in" and "troversion," the words "extraversion" and "extravert" are sometimes spelled "extroversion" and "extrovert." The explanation is sometimes offered that "extro" is a different form of "extra," and is used to make a contrast with "intro." Hence, you may be either an "extravert" or an "extrovert," and find good dictionary support for either.

The Doctor Says... Make Sure Pork Is Well-Done To Guard Against Trichinosis

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A tiny animal parasite which is called trichinella spiralis is the cause of the serious and common disease known as trichinosis. Infection comes most often from eating improperly cooked pork or pork products.

Cooking destroys these tiny animal parasites but meat which has not been entirely heated through and which was originally infected can and frequently does contain trichinella in the "rare" portion of the meat.

It has also been called to my attention by a reader that freezing at 5 degrees Fahrenheit for 20 days will also kill these parasites.

However, for ordinary purposes, cooking thoroughly is the safest thing to rely on.

A typical outbreak is one reported from Iowa. Twenty-five members of a Ladies' Aid group gathered for their regular bi-monthly meeting.

Sandwiches, pickles, and coffee were served. The filling for the sandwiches was made from mixed ham, hard-boiled eggs and mayonnaise.

The meeting took place on December 15 just before the Christmas holidays things began to happen. Several of the ladies complained of cramps in the abdomen, diarrhea, nausea, and chills and fever. Later pains in the muscles set in with stiffness of the neck, puffiness under the eyes, and swelling of the glands of the neck.

The reason for the muscular symptoms is that these tiny animal parasites actually go into the muscles and after irritating the muscles for a time become quiet there.

HEARTIEST EATERS SICKEST The ladies who ate the largest number of sandwiches began to get sick first and were also the most severely ill.

This kind of outbreak of trichinosis is by no means rare. The best safeguard against this disease other than attacking it in hogs and careful inspection of meat (which of course are the responsibility of hog raisers and sanitary inspectors respectively) is thorough cooking of all pork products.

Since the outbreak described here the butcher shop from which the meat was obtained has adopted the policy of refusing to grind any meat which is to be eaten uncooked.

School Program Jefferson PTA Meeting Topic

A timely talk on "Modern Trends in Education" by Miss Helen Elaine Stenson, elementary school supervisor, and a report by Mrs. Leonard Vader, representative on the Citizens Advisory Committee marked the program of the Jefferson Parent Teacher Association held in the school auditorium.

A resolution to support the school bond issue in the coming election was adopted by unanimous vote.

Following the business meeting several numbers were played by the Jefferson band members, Janet Olson, Gary Steele, Gerald Horechner, John Nelson, David Andrews, Donald Pearson, James Allen and Jerry Olson.

The attendance award was won by the second grade.

Hostesses were third grade mothers.

Former Escanabans Marooned 24 Hours On Skiing Trip

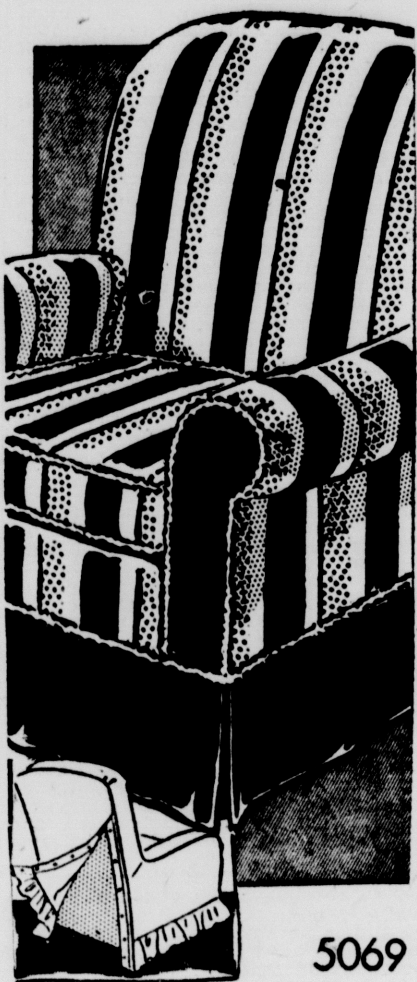

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Peterson of Sacramento, Calif., former Escanaba residents, were among 500 skiers marooned 24 hours on Echo Summit, one and a half miles east of Kyburz, Calif., last weekend when a 3,800 ton boulder crashed on the U. S. Highway, blocking their return from the resort.

The skiers, who were traveling in 3 buses and 12 cars were forced to remain at the resort until highway crews could construct a detour around the huge mass of rock.

Mrs. Peterson will be remembered here as the former Pat Sheedlo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Sheedlo of 20 Stephenson Ave.

Ever make bologna cases? Just cut the bologna with casing left on in slices that are about one-eighth inch thick, then heat the slices in a little fat in a skillet until their edges turn up and form cups. Fill the cups with hot creamed potatoes and sprinkle with finely-cut parsley.

THE AUGSBURG COLLEGE CHOIR of Minneapolis, on its spring tour, will appear in concert at Bethany Ev. Lutheran Church Sunday evening, Feb. 10, under the sponsorship of Immanuel Lutheran Church. Chicago Dines On Horse Meat

By ROBERT C. RUARK

CHICAGO—One of the reasons you find it easy to admire the city of Chicago is based in the extreme resourcefulness of its citizens. This is a town of opportunity, in which the local yeomanry makes its own breaks.

This was true, in spades, during the gentle, moribund days of prohibition, and has latterly been true in such highly salable commodities as vice, dope, and political corruption. The thing about Chicago is that when it goes on the hustle it seems to hustle with more vigor than the other towns.

Right now the hustle is hot horse meat. The horseburger scandal has been progressing for about a month, and as we gallop—you should pardon the expression—to press, the Cook County grand jury is convening to investigate a multimillion-dollar racket in horse substitutes for steak.

Sirloin of Percheron

The horse, in Chicago, is no longer a symbol of man's untiring efforts to wrest a living from either the soil or the race track. A horse is a skeleton in the culinary closet of Chicago politics, with everybody accusing everybody else of sponsoring a popular move to bring dobbie to peak popularity in the hors (again, pardon the expression) d'oeuvre department. At last count, the accused numbered Gov. Adlai Stevenson; Hopalong Cassidy; the Public Health department, which fires its employees with monotonous regularity; and Eddie Aracaro, a jockey. Mr. Aracaro's implied guilt stems only from a long and frequent association with horses.

Sly horseburger foundries, blood cousin to the old blind pig, seemingly flourish to shove sirloin of percheron into the public maw, and a former FBI agent, now a private eye, has been retained to separate the filices from the filet. Private meat-packing corporations have hired their own intelligence departments, and we bet the furtive slaughterhouse employee who is caught with an unclean hoof on his hip.

Steam houses have been shuttling doors to hide the blushes of the proprietors, who are suddenly made conscious of leaks in the gas pipes and ruptures in the electrical systems as they discover a slight infiltration of high coltage in the cold cuts. It is not necessary to say they neigh as public purveyors of food. One whinny and the reputation is wrecked.

The big mystery so far is where the horses who crowd out the cows in the slaughter pens have come from, and where the cows who are overcrowded have gone. Some say that the horse meat is being run in from Texas, a snide rumor that is likely to be denied by the good citizens of Houston, who had a horse-meat shortage (and scandal) of their own a few seasons back. Other people who bet horses rather than eat them have insinuated that the displaced cows are now running at Hialeah, an allegation that holds water if one has been betting at Hialeah lately.

Lie Detector Tests

I forgot to mention that, so far, 58 city food inspectors have been subjected to lie-detector tests. If they blush when the man says "furlongs" their jobs are held to be in jeopardy. One man who could not account for the immediate presence of his small child's Shetland pony was later shown to have been a member of the Communist party.

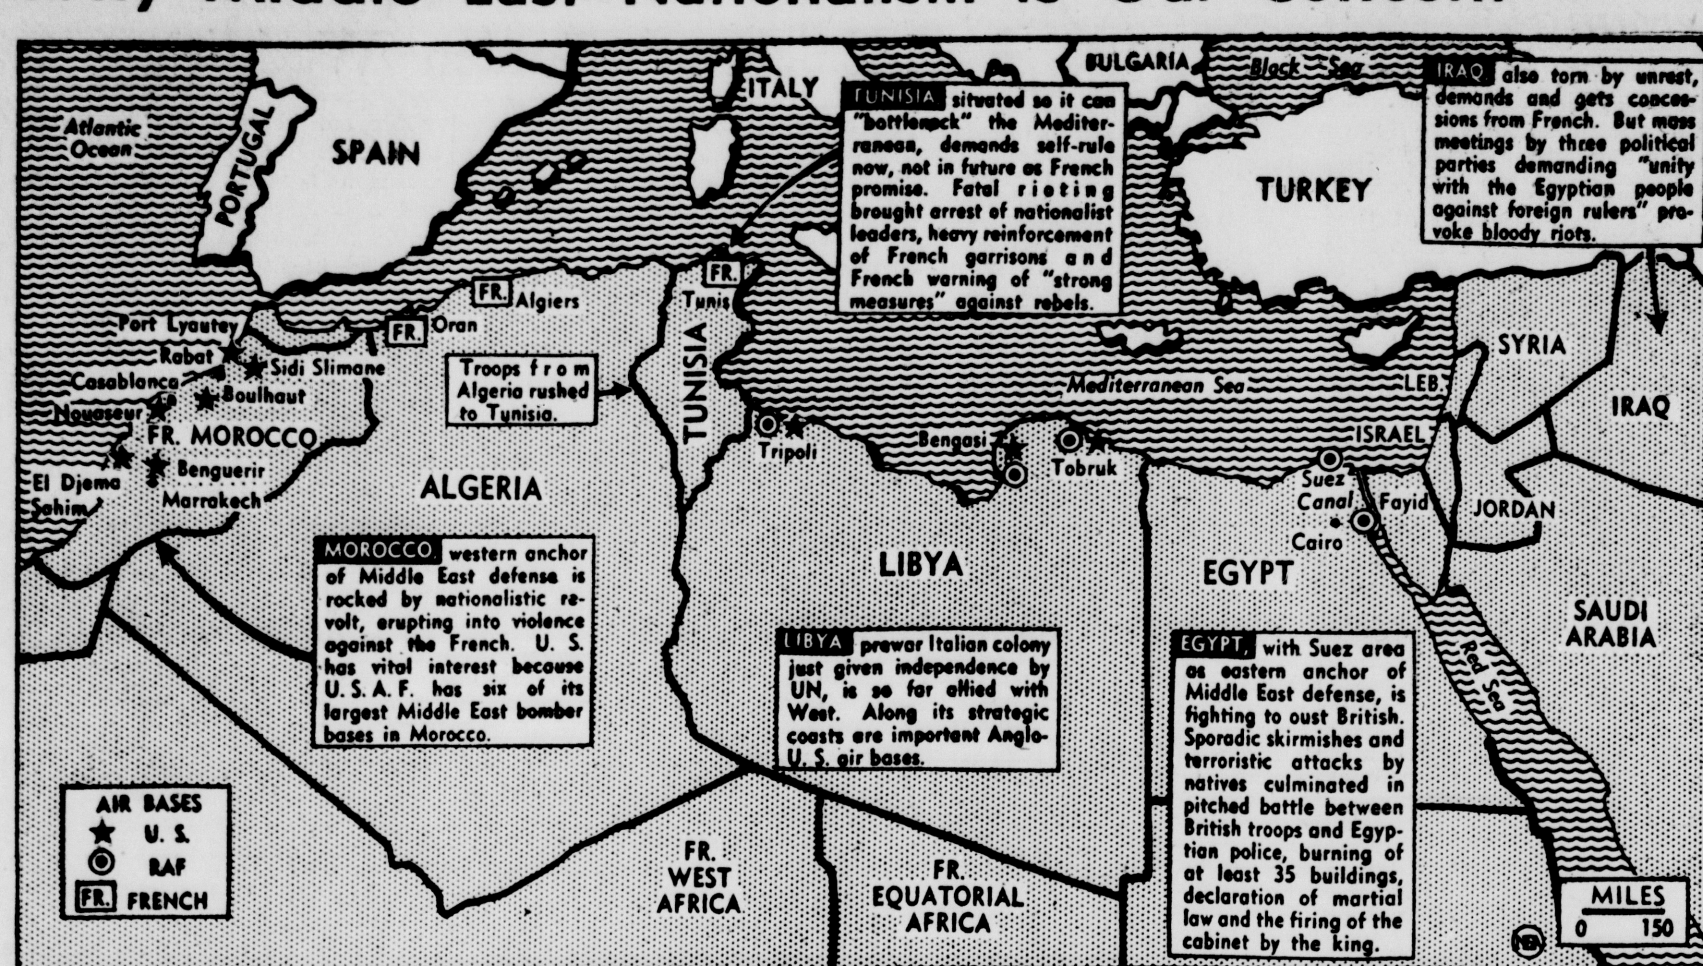

The governor said today that he certainly hopes the worst is over, while the state's attorney says it is all the governor's fault. Qualified sources close to the political scene here (who naturally refuse to be quoted) claim that the accusation of Gov. Stevenson is nothing more than a Republican plot to discredit him as a possible Democratic candidate for the presidency if Harry don't run. Oops, that would again.

In the meantime, head checks are being conducted by the better restaurants on each course containing meat of any sort. And the racketeers continue to make money, while thousands retch. However, apart from violent agitation of the more sensitive digestive apparatus, no real damage seems to have been done, unless you count Chicago's jealous reputation as cattle butcher to the world. In that respect, the city has suffered even more grievously than Houston, which dined happily off Dobbin for several months before the citizens discovered they had made a hearty mid-night snack of "Old Paint," who in Texas, outvotes the dog as man's best friend.

Cornell

The Cornell Progressors, 4-H club, held a regular meeting at the Cornell Hall Monday. It was decided to make a contribution to the polo fund. Bill Woodard gave a talk on his trip to Chicago. Mrs. Ted McFadden, leader, described the 4-H State Council meeting at Lansing which she attended. After the meeting members worked on their winter projects, and later enjoyed ice skating and basketball.

Why Middle East Nationalism Is Our Concern---

Expressed willingness of Egypt's new premier to discuss with the U. S., Britain, France and Turkey participation of Egypt in the proposed Middle East Defense Command was the first bright ray to pierce an ever-darkening cloud over the vital Mediterranean protectorates where upsurging nationalism threatens the stability of local governments. Also shown are the more important Allied air bases, from which, in the event of all-out war, Russia and its European satellites could be bombed. Egypt's earlier rejection of Middle East alliance was a severe blow to the West.

Resident Fishermen

Licenses Set Record

LANSING—(P)—Michigan had a record number of resident fishermen last year, the latest but still incomplete license sale reports indicated.

Reports to the state conservation department showed 830,161 licensed resident anglers in 1951 compared to the previous high of 829,702 fishermen in 1949.

Incomplete reports also showed the 1951 deer license figure might reach a new high. The department said 355,524 resident license sales have been reported compared to 355,000 licenses reported last year at this time.

The 1950 final total of 379,375 resident deer licenses set a new high.

Wild horses still are found in parts of the United States, including Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico and Oregon.

There are reports from both Canadian and American sources that the lampreys appear to be on the decline. Reductions in the number of young lampreys migrating to the lakes from the streams, in the number of adults running upstream to spawn and in the number of lamprey-scarred fish are being observed.

May Be Leveling Off

Of course, it is too soon to say whether this is a permanent reducing of the lamprey population or only a temporary set-back.

But the likelihood, the experts seem to think, is that it is a permanent "leveling off" of the lampreys.

Prof. Peter I. Tack, head of the fisheries and wildlife department at Michigan State College, predicted such an eventual reduction at least a year ago.

He contends that the lampreys will suffer the same natural consequences that all "exotic" species do. When a new species of wildlife is introduced and takes hold, it seems bound to grow and multiply like wildfire for a while. Then nature puts the brakes on, and something happens to level off the new species into its proper place in the scheme of things.

Smelt Had Malady

The pheasants in Michigan got their leveling off by a reduction in breeding. The smelt were killed off by the millions by a still unexplained malady.

Even if the lampreys are cut back to more reasonable numbers, however, that is no assurance that will mean the automatic return of lake trout in lakes Michigan and Huron.

True, lake trout are the brunt of the lamprey's parasitic attacks and the lampreys have been blamed principally for the near extinction of trout in the two lakes.

But there are now plenty of indications that maybe the lampreys were only one of a number of other factors which may have had a finger in the pie.

Among these indications is the finding that the trout have not been dying off as rapidly as expected in Lake Superior, even though the full-scale lamprey invasion has been on for several years.

No Ill Effects

Another straw in the wind is the history of the Finger lakes in New York state. They were invaded many years ago by lampreys, and there are plenty of lampreys left. But both lake and rainbow trout grow and prosper alongside the lampreys, suffering lamprey attacks but surviving them with no apparent ill effects.

What is really needed, it appears, is a thorough going scientific study of the Great Lakes to find out just what is happening.

Every rheumatism and arthritis sufferer in Michigan will be glad to know that Mrs. Florence Smith, 1879 Helen Avenue, Detroit, found a way to overcome her rheumatism and arthritis.

"I sure feel like a different person since I started to take O-JIB-WA BITTERS. I have just finished taking my second bottle with such wonderful results that I am anxious for others to know of this wonderful medicine. I suffered almost continually with rheumatism and arthritis in my back and fingers since 1946. My back was so stiff and painful that I had trouble getting out of bed in the morning. I couldn't even put my shoes on or bend over to do any work, and the only relief I could get was to sleep on an electric pad. At times my fingers were so crippled and the pain so terrible, that I was disgusted with myself because I could do so little housework. I read about O-JIB-WA BITTERS that I decided to try it. Now, I can truthfully say that after taking one and a half bottles of O-JIB-WA BITTERS, my back is now so much better that I can now fasten my slippers and bend over to do my housework with ease, which I haven't been able to do for almost six years. I am so glad to know that O-JIB-WA BITTERS because my pain and stiffness have almost left me, that I am glad to tell other people of my amazing recovery."

I Led Three Lives

Citizen — 'Communist' — Counterspy

By HERBERT A. PHILBRICK

Four and a Half Days of Testimony End Counter-Agent's Task; All the Comrades Can Do Is to Shun Him

XVII

The End of the Tightrope

I was the first F. B. I. informant to testify, not a party malcontent either, but an F. B. I. contact who was opposed to communism and communists from the beginning. It was the first time that the government ever had publicly acknowledged that it had undercover agents actually working inside the Communist party.

My testimony, as we worked it out in long pre-trial conferences, had two main purposes. First, I was to contribute all that I could from my experience to the "conspiracy" aspect of the indictment, to show that the party operated in secret, met behind closed doors in private apartments, organized itself on an underground pattern, and spread its doctrines, not openly but by planned subterfuge.

Secondly, but of no less importance, I was to contribute my testimony to the weight of evidence regarding what the Communist party taught and advocated in the meetings which I attended. We were to introduce as exhibits numerous books and pamphlets used by me in secret training schools with Communist comrades—material which, over the years, I had bundled up and passed along to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. I was to discuss the teachings in those Communist "textbooks," and tell how the most pertinent and most revolutionary ideas expressed in them were defined, expanded and explained by party instructors.

Violent Revolution

After my testimony, linked with that of other witnesses, had helped to nail down the charge that The Eleven had deliberately re-established the Communist party for revolutionary purposes, Mr. Gordon led me into the full details of the teachings within the secret sessions of the party. He introduced the complete outline for the teacher training course at 3 Hancock Street. It was at this point in the trial, from the four-year-old report to the Bureau that I had written out with shaking fingers, that the government drew up for the jury the definition of "revolution" as the term was understood by Communists. Anticipating a defense argument that "revolution" meant peaceable reform, Mr. Gordon took me back to the Hancock Street school where, under the glare of a naked light bulb, Fanny Hartman posed the question, "What do we mean by revolution?" He asked me what the class teacher said, and I testified:

"The teacher defined revolution as a violent revolution to be carried out by bands of armed workers against the existing state government."

At the end of my first day on the witness stand, I was taken in close custody again by my F. B. I. bodyguards, bundled out of the building the same way I came in to avoid newspaper reporters, and kept under guard through the night.

The party, meanwhile, scurried around Boston, trying desperately to find out just who I was. Some of the Pro-group members were so shocked to find they had been infiltrated by the F. B. I. that they could not believe their "Comrade Herb" and the Witness Philbrick were the same man. Still others had worked closely with me in front groups for many years without even knowing me as a Communist. When the district leadership recovered from the shock a few days later, they started a determined campaign of vilification in an effort to discredit me as a witness.

Textbooks Introduced

Thursday morning in the courtroom, the testimony went deeper into the teachings of the Communist party, and in particular those of the Hancock Street School where I was trained as an instructor in Marxism.

Although the first-hand, personal-experience testimony of the counterspies played the larger part in convicting the defendants, their own "textbooks" were a vital factor. One of the most condemning books offered in evidence was my original classroom copy of "History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (Bolsheviks)." Passages stressed in classes I attended were marked in the book, and Mr. Gordon excerpted them or the jury.

Finally, on Friday morning, after four sessions on the stand, the tide finished my direct examination, climaxing it was the account of Martha Fletcher's tirade on civil disobedience, and hammering home for the jury the fact that fartha and her comrades, when he spoke of fomenting civil strife, were unmistakably talking about civil disobedience in the United States.

The defense was unable to discredit my testimony, and in fact made little effort to refute what had been reported. When I finally stepped down from the stand on Tuesday after four and one-half days and 582 pages of testimony, the transcript, the defense moved to throw all of it out of court together with the supporting exhibits. But the only grounds they could muster to support the motion were that "the information that forms the basis of the testimony and all the exhibits introduced by the government were fraudulently obtained by the witness at the behest and in co-operation with the F. B. I., an agency of the United States Government, which agency financed his activities." Such activity, Mr. Isserman contended for the defense, was "unconstitutional, undemocratic and incident to a police state." There was more along the same line, and to all of it Judge Medina replied: "Motion Denied."

My services to the Bureau, naturally, were ended. Local police in Melrose offered protection for my family for some time after the trial. But my testimony against the Communists was by that time a matter of record, and no reprisals could remove it. The protection proved unnecessary and after a time we settled back into a normal routine and went our own way.

Still At Large

The comrades in the party shunned me. I encountered a few of them on the Boston streets. Most of them ducked me. Once I met Boone Schirmer and he snarled at me and turned his back.

The Eleven stand convicted, their conviction affirmed by the United States Supreme Court. But the Communist party and its conspirators are still at large. The control of the party and its violent revolutionary doctrine is a paramount question of national policy.

What is a communist?

He is specially trained to be all things to all men. In order to achieve maximum success, he carefully cultivates the proper veneer to conceal his motives and intent. Thus the most highly skilled—and the most dangerous—Communist is often a man of charm, wit, social standing, good manners, executive ability, brilliance, or achievement. Certainly he will not carry a dagger in his teeth, wear a long black coat, or convey the slightest hint of conspiracy. Thus he plans not only to escape detection; but he hopes that gullible Americans, even when faced with cold facts, will insist "Why, he couldn't possibly be a Communist—he's too nice (or smart, or handsome) a guy." Therein lies the reason why so many inherently loyal citizens, evidently unwilling to think evil of any man, are misled into sympathy for Communists as well as their fellow travelers and supposedly worthy causes.

The fight against the professional communist leader will not be won by flag waving or name calling. Patriots and would-be patriots who go in for bombast and two-fisted punching find that their smashing blows against the communists too often sail through a mist of angry controversy without landing on a solid object.

Underground War

It is an underground war, calling for long, hard, tough in-fighting. On the legal level and before the bar of public opinion, it calls for strenuous and continuous intelligence and counterspy work by government agencies charged with those responsibilities. It takes experts to fight experts. If the inexperienced red-hunter cannot distinguish between a communist and an innocent liberal or a fake reactionary, then he is also unable to distinguish a bona-fide communist from a government counterspy. Every precaution must be observed, for example, to protect the expert intelligence agent in the ranks of the communists.

Such measures as the outlawing of the Communist party could conceivably destroy government intelligence work without seriously damaging the underground party, and thus in the end merely serve to strengthen the communist hand.

The loyalty oath is another popular device, short of outlawry, which does more harm than good for the cause of anti-communism. In March, 1948, the State of Massachusetts put the teeth of penalty into its thirteen-year-old teachers loyalty oath law. Publicly, the comrades violently attacked the law. But in the secrecy of cell meetings they laughed about it, and gave order which put communist teachers first in line to sign up. A few teachers in the state refused to sign and could not teach. But they were non-communists. The cause of anti-communism lost more than it gained. Such oaths give the Communist Party new propaganda fuel, but they do not control party members or activities.

What can the average citizen do as to his part in the war against communism?

The most important single thing is to avoid behaving the way a communist says we must behave in a capitalist society. If the communist had his way he would force all non-communists to the extreme right, toward fascism and state control. The communist seeks by every means to create a split in our society, to provoke class hatred and intense conflict.

If we adhere to our traditional American dream of a society of freedom, of individual rather than state responsibility, of individual and collective intelligence, and of civil rights rather than rigid civil controls, then we will have disproved the communist theory of the inevitability of capitalist deterioration.

The communist depends upon hatred, uncertainty and fear. "Let the ruling classes tremble," wrote Karl Marx. The best answer for that is reaffirmation of the faith that ours is a nation and we are a people founded upon belief in God and the sanctity of each individual, and therein lies our strength. The communist believes only in the strength and the will of the party.

We believe that the strongest nation is the one which has the greatest possible individual freedom.

But there can be no individual freedom without equivalent individual responsibility.

Man Held For Armory Theft

William Sylvester, 25, of Manistique, is being held at the Schoolcraft County jail pending his arraignment in justice court on a charge of breaking into the National Guard armory and stealing $7.50 from the armory cash register.

He will be arraigned after William J. Sheahan prosecuting attorney returns to the city Saturday it is reported by local state police who took Sylvester into custody about 5 p. m. Tuesday.

A boot print on a bench in the armory showing the word "Nome" was the only clue found by state police after the case was reported to them by Capt. E. J. Doyle. Less than four hours later Sylvester was in jail and had made a full confession.

Checking with the J. C. Penney store which sells "Nome" brand rubber boots state police found that this particular type of boot was sold only in a tan color.

Later they learned from City Patrolman George Danko that Sylvester whom he had questioned on a draft matter Sunday night, had worn new tan rubber boots.

Police questioned Ernest Anderson, with whom Sylvester was stopping, and learned that Sylvester had only 21 cents on his person Monday.

When apprehended by state police Tuesday Sylvester who is not working, had $4.69 in his possession. The evidence of the rubber boots plus possession of this amount of money was too much for Sylvester, and he made a full confession shortly after he was arrested.

Sylvester, a former member of the local National Guard company, entered the armory through a partly open window.

Two Lansing Guardsmen sleeping at the armory were awakened by Sylvester and to them he explained that the presence of trucks outside induced him to check the building. Lacking a key he had entered through the window, he said. Two men accepted this explanation and let him out through the door.

The following day the two Lansing Guardsmen, returning from Iron Mountain and Baraga, reported the incident to Guard officials here. This was their first knowledge that the building had been illegally entered, and the matter was reported to state police after a cash register check revealed that money was missing. Sylvester told police that he had spent part of the money for food.

Certificates announced for the four-week period ended Jan. 18 included:

Puritan Mining Co., Bessemer, Mich., $7,530,789, at 65 per cent; this is part of a $12,534,400 iron ore project.

Good bowling comes from constant practice.

Read the advice of Dr. Buddy Bomar, bowling expert:

"The time to experiment and improve your game is during open play."

"Most bowlers don't do enough open bowling and are forced to experiment during league play, or not at all. As a result, their games do not show any great improvement."

"Bowl a few games during the afternoon, if possible, or over the weekend, when leagues are not in progress on your lanes."

"Correcting mistakes in open play on Saturday and Sunday can mean higher scores in your league play during the week."

Col. John W. Kelly Now Instructing Ft. Riley Classes

FORT RILEY, Kans.—Colonel John W. Kelly, of 600 Arbutus Ave., Manistique, Mich., reported to Fort Riley recently to be the senior instructor for the first four classes of the special associate course of the command and general staff college, now being conducted at the army general school at Fort Riley, Kans.

The first of these classes (Phase III) began with 29 reserve officers enrolled, and six more two-week classes will be completed before the end of May.

Six other reserve officers will work with Colonel Kelly to instruct the first phase, and they will be replaced for each of the courses following. However, Colonel Kelly will remain here for the first four classes, two of Phase II and two of Phase III, to insure consistency in the instruction. The last three classes will be of Phase I.

This instruction is a part of an overall course designed to prepare special selected officers for duty in general staff work and as commanders of troops at division level. The entire course consists of a total of six-week presented in three two-week periods (phases) of approximately one year apart.

Colonel Kelly is in the insurance business in Manistique. He will return after the course has been completed.

Giving Of Kuder Tests Is Started At High School

Giving of Kuder Preference Record tests to Manistique high school seniors started yesterday and will be completed next week, it is announced by Carl Olson, principal.

Between 1 and 4 p. m. next Thursday seniors will take Detroit General Aptitude Tests, Olson said.

These tests, given on a timed basis, reveal a student's general intelligence in 10 different fields of knowledge, his mechanical knowledge and inclination in 10 fields, and his clerical interests in nine fields.

Scores achieved in the test also will determine a student's intelligence quotient, the principal reported.

in the near future will convene a meeting to be attended by representatives of various interested organizations it is announced. At that time the master plan will be studied and plans laid to initiate some action in getting one or more individual projects started.

Lynch was engaged by the commission last fall to prepare a master plan of the park. Following a visit here and a conference with various organization representatives he returned to New York to create sketches of a suggested over-all development program.

Benefit Show Scores Success

A packed house witnessed the Central park benefit show Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium, and contributed over $80 to the park fund at a voluntary offering collected at the exits at the conclusion of the program.

Both stage presentations—"Ring Once for Central" by the drama committee of the Manistique Women's Club and "The City Slicker and Our Nell", a melodrama offered by the high school Dramatic Club—scored an enthusiastic hit with the audience. Acting and make-up were especially effective.

In addition to the two stage shows the program included orchestra selections under the direction of James Monroe and vocal numbers by the high school Mixed Octet directed by Miss Gretchen Shirk.

The benefit performance was presented under the sponsorship of the Central Park Youth Association.

NO TAXES

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—This key city in Northern Indochina—now having a population estimated at about 500,000—has an unusual distinction—it lacks taxicabs.

The big reason is said to be the difficulty of keeping a fleet of cabs supplied with oil and gasoline, which has to be transported from the northeastern port city of Haiphong.

The gasoline is needed to run the French and Vietnamese war machine in its operations against the Communist-led Vietminh forces.

Officials for the class B district basketball tournament to be held at Menominee on March 7-8 have been announced by Ken Radick, tournament manager. . . The whistle tooters, assigned by the Michigan High School Athletic Association's Upper Peninsula committee, will be Dave Douglas of Iron Mountain and Harold Anderson of Stambaugh. . . Menominee, Stephenson, Escanaba and Gladstone will clash in the tournament.

John Moersch, Menominee forward, fired 14 points through the hoop as the Maroons beat Lourdes of Marinette Tuesday night. . . Moersch saw limited action the remainder of the game and came out with two dozen points, high for both teams. . . Second on the scoring list was Jim Christopherson, Menominee's second string center, with 13.

Upper Peninsula open division Golden Gloves champions will be fighting for further laurels when they step into the squared circle at Milwaukee's Arena Tuesday night. . . Open division winners at Milwaukee will represent Wisconsin and Upper Michigan in the Chicago Tournament of Champions Feb. 25, 26 and 27. . . For the novices, Milwaukee is the end of the road. . . Competing in Milwaukee Tuesday night will be champions of sectional tournaments in Milwaukee, Escanaba, Camp McCoy, Fond du Lac and Marshfield.

It all depends on where you sit: A Houghton Daily Mining Gazette sports writer takes a wack at the Daily Press and Esky hockey fans. . . "From Escanaba," writes Kemp of Kemp's Korner, "the Hawks are pictured as knights in shining armor, bearers of light, decency and honor who can do no wrong. On the other hand, the Pioneers are pictured as villains of the first order, lawbreakers and roughnecks. Any person who has watched the Hawks play at Dee Stadium knows that the story doesn't jibe with the facts. All the Pioneers can tell you that it is a lot rougher when they go to Escanaba and the Hawks put on their act before the home town fans. They get away with quite a bit, too, under home town supervision."

Menominee Will Face Eskymos Here Tonight

The second straight cage tournament preview will be offered here this evening when the Escanaba Eskymos play host to the Menominee Maroons.

les invaded the Esky court and were defeated 62-34. Stephenson, Menominee and Gladstone are possible tournament foes in the class B district tangle at Menominee March 7-8.

And as was the case last week, Escanaba will be seeking revenge for a previous defeat at the hands of the invading quint. Stephenson had tagged the Eskys with a 45-43 double overtime loss in the first meeting at Stephenson. Menominee won 56-40 at Menominee.

Heiden Ill

Coach Steve Baltic's Eskymos will be without the full time services of guard Jim Heiden, the team's high scorer this season. Heiden has been ill all week and was not suited for practice.

Heiden was bothered with a stomach ailment that was at first thought to be appendicitis. He will see limited action tonight and may not get a starting assignment.

If Heiden does not start, Coach Baltic will pair Tom Smith with Fred Boddy at the guard spots.

Paul Baldwin will be at center and Paul Gunderman and John Peterson at forwards.

Escanaba will be facing a rugged, hustling team in Coach Bob Noonan's Maroons. Menominee plays an brand of ball that has produced nine wins in 13 starts this season.

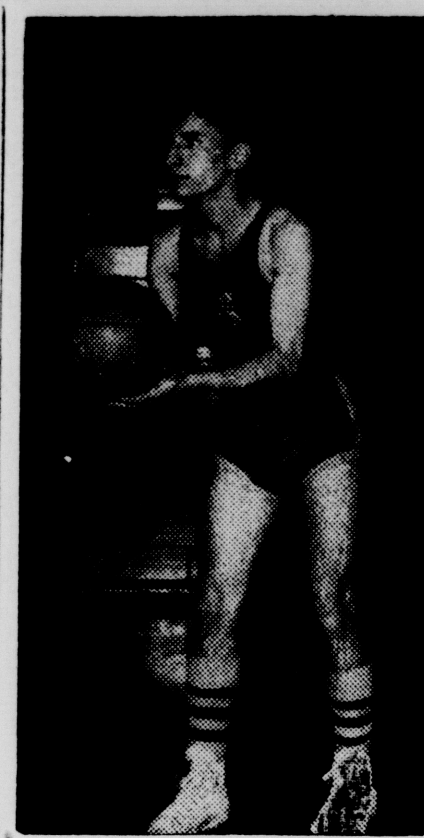

Maroon Starters

Coach Baltic said this morning that the Eskymos have worked well in practice this week and have been hitting the hoop. Except for Heiden all the Escanaba cagers are in good physical condition.

Maroon starters tonight will be John Moersch and Dick Bero, forwards; Bob Nielsen, center, and Loren Wall and Dick Hoebrex at guards.

Game officials will be Dave Douglas of Iron Mountain and Leo Brunelle of Bark River.

The main game will get under way at 8:30. A preliminary between the Bee teams of the two schools starts at 7.

SPEEDY TROJAN—Bill Baker, St. Joe forward, is the smallest man on the Trojan starting five but more than makes up for his lack of height with speed and an accurate eye. Baker is one of two seniors on the varsity squad. Bill had his hottest scoring night in the first game with Stephenson when he hit 19 points. (Daily Press Photo)

Trojans At Stephenson

A two game win streak and a five game losing streak will be on the line tonight when the St. Joe Trojans invade Stephenson High School gymnasium.

Coach Tom St. Germain's Trojan cagers have won their last two starts after dropping their only two losses of the current campaign. Stephenson, on the other hand, hasn't won a game in nearly a month.

The last time the Eagles of Coach Walter Schousen came out on top was Feb. 11 in a 29-27 affair with Gladstone. Since then Stephenson has lost successive games to Peshtigo, Manistique, Powers, Menominee and Escanaba.

The Stephenson overall record this season is nine losses and two wins. In a previous meeting with the Trojans Stephenson fell 76-41 at the St. Joe gym.

Coach Schousen will stick with his regular starters in an effort to snap his losing streak. Dave Hedin and Loren Johnson will be at forwards, either Chuck or Harold Anderson will be at center and Ken Hofer and Stan Luczkowski at guards. Front line reserves are Tom Kukuk, freshman, Bob Melchior and Hilding Linderoth.

The Trojans, boasting the highest scoring average in the Upper Peninsula at 68.1 per game, will be seeking their 10th win of the season.

The Trojans will open action with Dick Cass and Bill Baker at forwards, Pete Kutchas at center, Jim Gravelle and John Manistac at guards. Likely to see reserve action are Bob Sendenburgh, Jerry McDonough, Tom Brien, Jim Zimmerman, Don Legault and Tom Millington.

Game officials will be Bob Tacker of Hermansville and Ken Radick of Menominee.

Foxes Hand Kessler's 68-56 Court Defeat

Trailing 31-30 at halftime, the Rodman's Bar Foxes of Hermansville stepped on the gas in the third and fourth periods to defeat Kessler's Bar of Escanaba here last night by a 68-56 score.

The victory gave the Foxes a record of nine wins against a lone loss in independent basketball circles this season. The Foxes were defeated before Christmas by an Iron Mountain quint.

Rodman's wrestled the lead in the third period by outscoring Kessler's 17-12. In the final frame the visiting Hermansville quint racked up 21 points to 13 for Kessler's to win going away.

Gerrish Hits 24

Chick Gerrish, former Soo star, paced Rodman's with 24 points on 11 buckets and two free throws. Don Lewis, center, put in 21 points for Kessler's.

In the preliminary, Escanaba Harnischfeger tuned up for its Saturday night game with the Milwaukee Harnies by posting an easy 61-31 verdict over an Escanaba All-Star crew.

Forward Ed Gauthier led the Harnies with 22 points. Don Martineau was high for the Stars with 12. Harnischfeger led in each period, taking a 14-2 margin in the first stanza.

Junior Hawks Travel To Menominee Sunday

Escanaba's Junior Hawks will inaugurate hockey in Menominee Sunday afternoon for the first time in a decade when they take on the Menominee Wildcats in a 3:15 (EST) clash.

Considerable interest in the game has been evidenced in Menominee and a large crowd is expected to be on hand. The Wildcats were organized this year with Ted Young as manager.

The team obtained a hockey rink which is almost regulation size—it measures 170 by 85 feet—and installed boards and snow-fence. The Wildcats played here once and dropped a 9-2 game to the young Hawks, but they expect to do better on their home ice.

Leagues Open Monday
Meanwhile, the Escanaba Junior and Juvenile Hockey leagues are set to open schedules Monday. All teams are uniformed and have hockey equipment and are ready for the opening league faceoffs. Complete schedule of games has been drawn up in both leagues.

A schedule of supervision, coaching and officiating staff was announced today by the Senior Hawks. On hand to work with the Juniors will be Mel Bertrand on Monday nights, Ted and Mark Olson on Tuesday nights, Jim Rattray of Gladstone on Thursday nights, Jerry Tagliabracce on Friday nights and Bob Grabowski on Saturday afternoons.

Week night activity is from 7 to 9:45 and on Saturday from 1 to 5 p. m.

Chevs Stave Off CYO Rally To Win 47-41

MANIS—The Chevs piled up a 27-18 first half lead here last night, and then staved off a CYO rally to post a 47-41 city league win.

The Chevs were paced by Berggren with 20 points, high for both teams. Ken Smith and Bob Weber led CYO with nine apiece.

Cage Game Surviving Fix Scandal Stigma

AP Newsfeatures
NEW YORK—Has college basketball in Madison Square Garden survived the stigma of the bribery scandals?

At the half way mark of the schedule, figures show only a slight decline in the average per game attendance, as compared to last season, the difference being 1,685.

The Garden was the focal point for the bribery scandals which rocked the very foundation of the hoop game. But basketball, a highly interesting spectator sport as well as a favorite on the college winter athletic docket, is made of sterner stuff.

Prior to the briber mess, four New York City colleges played most of their home games on the Garden court. NYU, CCNY, St. Johns and LIU met the top cage teams from all corners of the nation. Manhattan, St. Francis and Brooklyn College were also on the agenda for a few games each season.

These schools have large enrollments, alumni and followers. And the crowds flocked to the New York arena for the collegiate double-headers.

But then came the rude awakening. Players admitted shaving point margins and dumping games. The New York District Attorney's office revealed a sordid picture of athletes consorting with unsavory underworld characters.

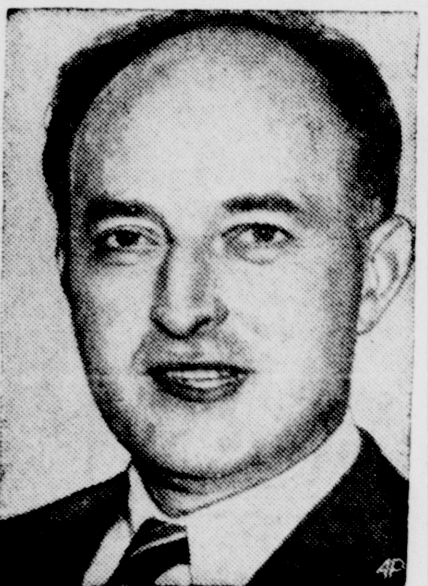

Some observers forecast the doom of the sport, especially when out-of-town schools were discovered to have "point throwers" on their teams, too.

LIU dropped intercollegiate athletics. Authorities forced CCNY and Brooklyn to eliminate the Garden as the site for their basketball games.

Thus the Garden was forced to cut the number of double-header dates for this season.

But the attendance figures show no sharp decline.

At the same half way point of the '50-'51 season, the Garden

NED IRISH
Sees Upward Climb

average attendance was 12,548. At the same spot this season the average was 10,863. But two years ago ('49-'50) the average was 15,800. Without any scandals or probes the drop was 3,252.

Ned Irish, Garden executive and impresario of the sport there, believes the main reason for the attendance drop has been the scarcity of entertainment money.

Says Irish: "The overall picture of sports and entertainment in general throughout the country shows that attendance is down this year as compared to last. Attendance has been lower this season on other annual Garden events such as the rodeo and the horse show."

"I do believe, however, that there are signs of an upward trend in the entire entertainment field. And that would include sports."

"An encouraging sign about the college games at the Garden is the increase in student attendance. NYU is selling 20 per cent more student tickets than a year ago. Yes, it looks like an upward climb from here."

MSC, Ohio Both Seek .500 Mark

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—The .500 mark in the Big Ten basketball standings will be the target as Michigan State and Ohio State meet here Sunday night.

Both teams have won three and lost four in conference play. The Buckeyes were in the first division with a record of three wins and two losses just a week ago. But then they lost to league-leading Illinois 66-62 in the last two minutes of play and dropped another to Minnesota.

Ohio State's major threat is center Paul Ebert, tied with Carl McNulty of Purdue for runner-up position behind Iowa's Chuck Darling in the Big Ten scoring race. Ebert, a six-foot-four-inch sophomore, has a 20.1 point per game average.

MSC Coach Pete Newell has been working during the past week trying to patch up a defense that allowed Northwestern to run away for an 86-76 win in an overtime game last Saturday.

The Spartan offense has been bolstered by the return of forward Keith Stackhouse, still leading team scorer with 155 points. Denny Hartman, starting center early this season, also may be back for part-time duty Saturday night to help take some of the pressure off Bob Carey.

No Midgets For Rajah

EL CENTRO, Calif.—(AP)—In case there is any doubt about it, and there really isn't, this is to advise that there will be no midgets playing for the St. Louis Browns as long as Rogers Hornsby is the manager.

Hornsby made this clear yesterday to all—including seven midgets.

Hornsby and the seven little midgets met at the Brown's temporary training camp yesterday. "The wee peoples' spokesman, Billy Curtis, from Hollywood—where else?—made a brief speech. He said his people had a "soft spot" in their hearts since the Browns used a midget in a regular game last year as a pinch-hitter.

Serious-minded Rogers listened for a minute or so, but when the leader of the so-called Hollywood Midgets Baseball club said they had "come down to help the Browns," the Rajah could go along

Red Wings Move To Bigger Lead

(By The Associated Press)

The Detroit Red Wings' superiority over the Montreal Canadiens is the prime reason the Wings top the National League by 12 points today.

Detroit has collected 16 out of a possible 22 points in engagements with the Canadiens this season, winning eight games, losing one and tying two.

The Wings tripped their favorite "cousins," 5-3, in Detroit last night to pull 12 points up on the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs who were idle.

Montreal scored its lone victory of the series in its previous visit to Detroit. The Wings have won four and tied one at home and boast four victories and a tie in five games in Montreal.

The Wings wrapped up their latest triumph early, banging home five goals in the first 39 minutes of play. Red Kelly, Gordie Howe, Metro Prystai, Ted Lindsay and Butch Voit were the Detroit marksmen.

Bud McPherson, Paul Meger and Floyd (Busher) Curry scored for the Canadiens who played without Maurice Richard.

The New York Rangers downed the Chicago Blackhawks, 3-1, in the only other game. The victory enabled the Rangers to move to within four points of fourth place Boston.

Calumet Noses Sentinels, 5-4

MARQUETTE, Mich.—Frank Sotlich is some shakes as a goal tender.

Any claim Calumet may have made to having the best net-minder in the Northern Michigan Hockey League was backed here last night by 1,226 Marquette fans who witnessed their Sentinels go down to a 5-4 defeat simply because Sotlich was in their way too much of the time.

In all, Sotlich made 42 saves and De Marinis 32. Many of them were of the "sure goal" variety.

Roy Olson scored Marquette's first goal at 19:35 of the second period and Johnny Vasseau counted the other three in the third period. Roy Olson also had three assists.

Don Nichols, Calumet, defenseman, played the entire game with one broken skate.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Boston—Willie James, 204½, Boston, outpointed Rex Layne, 199, Salt Lake City, 10.

New York (Sunnyside Gardens)—Nino Valdez, 206, Havana, outpointed Keene Simmons, 206, Bayonne, N. J., 10.

Edgar Laprade clinched the game for the Rangers by scoring during the last two minutes of play.

In the Detroit game, Howe's goal was his 27th of the year and put him on top of the NHL individual scoring department. He tallied after Red Kelly started things off for the Wings with his 12th score of the year.

Lost Second Place

The Canadiens playing without their sidelined star, Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, put up a stiff fight but couldn't get going to overcome the Red Wing scoring edge.

A victory would have put Montreal in second place over the idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

In the second period Metro Prystai hit for his 14th goal of the season on a breakaway before Bud McPherson snapped one in for Montreal. Ted Lindsay then grabbed the puck for his 18th and Benny Voit collected his third.

In the final stanza the Wings concentrated on defense and saw the Canadiens pick holes in their armor. They got only three shots at the enemy nets while Montreal rallied with two goals in a great finishing drive.

Marcel Pronovost was cut on the left instep in the first period and is expected to be out of the Detroit lineup for at least a week.

Calumet Noses Sentinels, 5-4

MARQUETTE, Mich.—Frank Sotlich is some shakes as a goal tender.

Any claim Calumet may have made to having the best net-minder in the Northern Michigan Hockey League was backed here last night by 1,226 Marquette fans who witnessed their Sentinels go down to a 5-4 defeat simply because Sotlich was in their way too much of the time.

Don Nichols, Calumet, defenseman, played the entire game with one broken skate.

Ring Comeback Comes To Halt

BOSTON—(AP)—Rex Layne, Salt Lake City heavyweight, attempting a fistic comeback at the tender age of 23, today was convinced he had made a false start.

After being rudely checked last year by Rocky Marciano and ex-titlist Ezzard Charles, Layne took a long layoff and resumed action two weeks ago.

He warmed up by knocking out Bob Garner of Lexington, Ky., in three rounds in Salt Lake City, and then accepted an offer to tangle with Willie James of Boston, another comparative unknown, here last night.

James, who had only 18 previous professional engagements, gained a unanimous 10-round decision over the wild-swinging and wide-open Layne, taller, weighed only 5½ pounds more.

Marv Jensen, Layne's manager, lamented after the bout: "We took the match on six days notice, which didn't give Rex time enough to train down to his 190 normal fighting weight."

Emeralds Host To Newberry Tonight

MANISTIQUE—The Emeralds will be seeking their seventh Great Lakes Conference victory when they tangle with the Newberry Indians in the new high school gymnasium here tonight.

The varsity game is scheduled for 8:30. Reserves of the two schools will meet in a preliminary at 7.

In preparation for the Newberry clash, Coach Robert Hussey stressed offensive ball handling in practice Wednesday. He wants his men to be able to cope with a situation which developed in the Mustang game Tuesday night when the Mustangs threw an offensive press at the Emeralds in the closing minutes of play.

Starters for the Newberry game will be Lake at center, St. John and Wilson at forward, and Hinkson and McNamara in the guard spots.

Manistique defeated the Indians at Newberry in a game Jan. 4.

Big Ten Crisis Saturday Night

CHICAGO—(AP)—Iowa's battle for the Big Ten basketball championship reaches the crisis point Saturday at Iowa City.

The Hawkeyes have to beat Illinois to stay in serious contention for the crown.

For Illinois, leading the conference with six straight victories, the game also is extremely important. But the Illini could drop this one and still be in strong position to win the title.

Iowa, the current runnerup with five wins in six conference games, is definitely on the spot. If the Hawks win, they and the Illini will be deadlocked for the Big Ten leadership. If Iowa loses, only an unexpected faltering in the Illinois drive could stop the Illini from banging through to the title.

Whatever the result, a sellout crowd of 16,000 should get its money's worth in watching the crucial game of the Big Ten season to date.

Four other conference games will be played Saturday night, the most important of these being third-place Minnesota's effort to win its sixth league game, with Wisconsin the opposition.

Both teams have dropped three Big Ten games, but Wisconsin has played only five to the Gophers' eight.

The rest of the schedule has Purdue (1-6) at Indiana (3-3), Michigan (1-5) at Northwestern (4-4), and Ohio State (3-4) at Michigan State (3-4).

Johnny Palmer Leads El Paso Golf Tourney

EL PASO, Tex.—(AP)—Johnny Palmer, the Badin, N. C., tournament veteran, set out at the head of the field in the $10,000 El Paso open's second 18-hole round today.

Palmer led with a seven-under-par 64 but his position was a trifle shaky even for the first round—which wasn't finished for nine players last night.

Among them was Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., who had a four-under-par when he was forced to quit on the thirteenth green because it was too dark to see what he was doing.

Refugee Athletes Will Not Be Able To Compete In 1952 Olympic Games

OSLO—(AP)—Avery Brundage revealed today he will bring before the international Olympic committee the plight of hundreds of refugee athletes from Iron Curtain countries.

"We certainly can't help them to compete in the winter games here and I doubt if we can do anything for them even in the summer games at Helsinki but the situation is a tragic one," said Brundage, a Chicago hotel man who is vice president of the IOC.

The winter games open here Feb. 14. The Olympic executive committee will meet in Oslo Monday and the full committee on the following two days.

Can't Compete

"Many fine athletes of Olympic caliber are banned from the games because they are refugees," said Brundage. "Under our rules if an athlete once competed for a certain country he never can compete for another even if he fled his homeland."

Obviously no country will appoint a refugee to its Olympic team so this class of athlete is shut out from world competition. The Olympic committee of Eastern European refugees has applied as an organization for recognition of such athletes.

Among the better known athletes who are refugees are, Jaroslav Drobný, Czechoslovakian tennis star and hockey player; Aja Trzanova, Czech skater; Sander zegedy, Hungarian swimmer; 'ornzi Pajor, Hungarian speed skater; and Imre Rajczy and Imre rdeyli, Hungarian Olympic fencing champions.

Changes In Ceremonies

"If any athlete never competed in the games and if he takes out few citizenship papers he can compete," said Brundage. "But any might object doing that."

The death of King George VI probably will bring a change in opening ceremonies next Thursday.

Crown Prince Olav likely will announce the words that will start the competition. King Haakon is scheduled to do so but he is expected to attend funeral services in London.

With 1,187 competitors entered on 30 countries, already 500 have arrived here and more are coming daily.

There will be huge crowds for all events—possibly 150,000 for the climatic ski jump on the final Sunday at Holmenkollen Hill. But only a few of the spectators will be from other countries. Olympic officials don't expect more than 10,000 foreigners and most of them will be Swedes.

Former MSC Star Will Compete In Baxter Mile Run

NEW YORK — (AP)—Lieut. arren Druetzler, former Michigan State star, will compete with others for the Baxter Mile of the New York Athletic club tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden. His entry as accepted yesterday.

Druetzler now is representing ump Lee, Va., where he is a agent in the basic officers urse at the quartermaster pool. He won the NCAA mile at June in 4:08.8 while representing Michigan State.

Earlier this season he was second to Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin in the Washington Star mes.

Aggies Bumped By Tulsa 46-33

NEW YORK — (AP)—From all indications the Oklahoma Aggies are out of the running for the NCAA basketball title this year.

The team that was runnerup to Kansas State in the Western NCAA finals last year received probably a fatal blow to its 1952 hopes last night in losing to Tulsa, 46-33. It was the first Tulsa victory over the Aggies in 11 years.

It was also the Aggies' 2nd defeat in Missouri Conference competition and gave St. Louis, unbeaten in league play, an apparent stranglehold on the league crown. The Missouri Conference winner automatically qualifies for the Western NCAA eliminations.

Notre Dame Upset

Meantime, unbeaten St. Bonaventure continued serenely on its way to its much-heralded Monday's meeting with Duquesne by whipping Murray State of Kentucky, 74-63. The Dukes and the Bonnies are the only major undefeated teams in the nation.

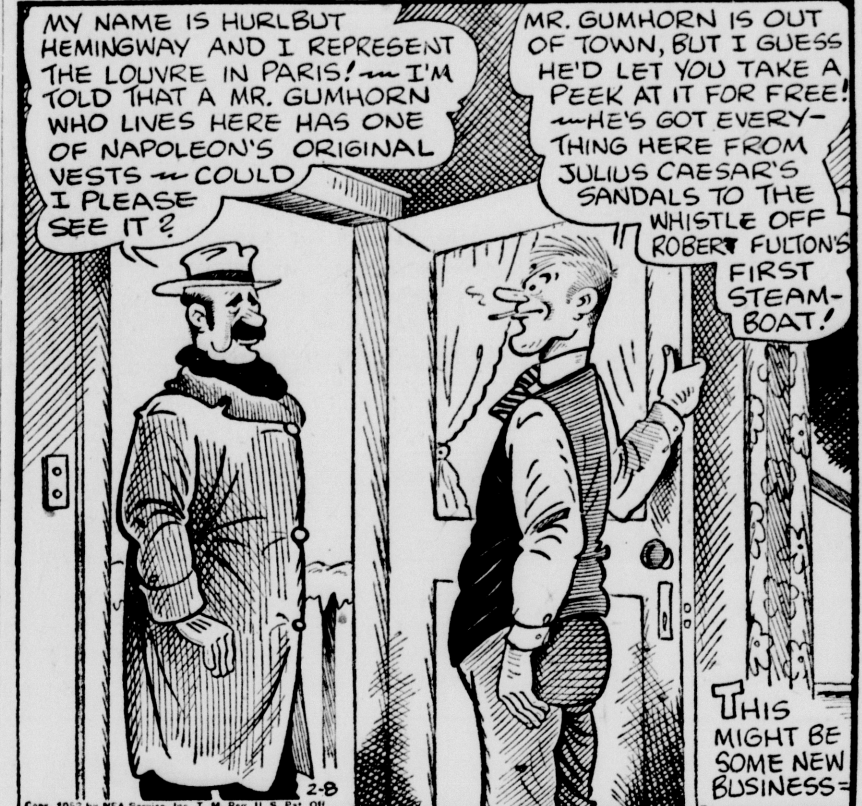

Marquette and Holy Cross also came through with impressive victories. Marquette, behind 37-

31 at the half, rallied to upset Notre Dame, 57-50, the first time Marquette has beaten the Irish on the Notre Dame floor since Feb. 18, 1939.

Holy Cross spurred in the last quarter to beat Columbia, 85-80, in overtime. Columbia, led by Jack Molinas' 39 points, had led, 58-53, after three periods.

DePaul made it 7 straight by nipping Manhattan 66-65 in half of a Madison Square doubleheader.

Barbara Marchetti Favored To Capture Outdoor Skate Title

ALPENA, Mich. — (AP)—Veteran Ray Blum of Nutley, N. J., will defend his senior men's title at the North American outdoor speed skating championships here this weekend. But the women's crown will be up for grabs.

When Betty Mitchell of Edmonton, Alberta, reported she would not defend her senior women's title, hospital receptionist Barbara Marchetti of Detroit flashed into the favorite's role.

A victory for Miss Marchetti, former resident of Norway in the U. P., would give her a clean sweep of the major titles. She already has won the national indoor and outdoor crowns and the North American indoor title.

200 Entrants

At least ten states and three of Canada's provinces will send entrants to the Saturday and Sunday meet at Alpena's winter sports park. The entry list was expected to range from 160 to 200.

But missing will be some leading men's stars—such as Ken Henry and Pat McNamara of the United States. They are in Norway for the Winter Olympic games.

A cold snap has wiped out fears that the meet might be thawed out. When temperatures dropped to the low twenties Wednesday night the sponsors flooded the ice three times to thicken it. The Chamber of Commerce predicted perfect ice for the meet, highspot of Alpena's annual winter sports carnival.

Leading threats to Blum's championship were three Detroiters—Mario Trafletti, Terry Browne, and Omer De Schepper.

Besides Miss Marchetti, the top women's contenders are Doreen McCloud of Edmonton and Betty McCormick of Toronto.

From 10 States

Besides Michigan and New Jersey the following states and provinces will be represented: Massachusetts, New York, Minnesota, Connecticut, Ohio, California, Iowa, Illinois, Manitoba, Alberta, and Ontario.

Most of the attention will center on the men's and women's senior competition with events scheduled in the sprints, middle distances, and long distances. The senior championships go to the skaters with the highest point totals in the combined events.

Also scheduled was championship competition for boys and girls in the following divisions, with champions decided the same way: Intermediate, junior, juvenile and midget.

No North American outdoor meet was held last year.

Virtually all of Michigan's 74 entrants come from Saginaw, Bay City, Alpena or the Detroit area.

Colleges Take New View On Athletes Who 'Flunk Out'

NEW YORK — (AP)—The new National Collegiate A. A. principle which requires athletes to "make satisfactory progress toward a degree" seems to be showing results although it has been in effect less than a month.

During the past week, as results of mid-year examinations have been coming in, at least 25 varsity athletes at major colleges and universities have been dropped from school or declared ineligible for athletics because of scholastic deficiencies. The list probably is incomplete as these are only the ones whose names were mentioned in wire stories.

Such procedure is normal at this time when examination grades are posted and the new semester begins. But the attendant publicity isn't normal. In past years the colleges were inclined to adopt a hush-hush attitude when an athlete failed in his studies. Only about a year ago it took several days for sports writers to confirm that Vic Janowicz, Ohio State's All-America football star, had flunked out. They had to locate Vic and persuade him to accept a campus parking fine so he could get his grades.

Wholesale Ousters

This year, possibly because of the NCAA academic principle or because the college presidents have demanded that athletes should also be students, the institutions are rushing into print with the news when a star football or basketball player becomes ineligible.

And they're giving out the news in wholesale lots, too. Brown, for instance, came out last week with the word that Edward Fexton, center and captain-elect of the football team, and four hockey players had run afoul of academic deficiencies.

Notre Dame dropped three varsity basketball players, Entee Shine, Don Strasser and John Stevens, from the squad just a few hours before an important game with Kentucky. They had failed to maintain the athletes' required average of 77. At Notre Dame the passing grade is 70 but students taking part in extra-curricular activities, including athletics, must make better marks.

Four Illini Out

At William and Mary, Willie Clark 6-foot-6 basketball center, and three football players were dropped from school for failure to make proper academic progress.

Illinois put three basketball reserves on the ineligible list along with shot-putter and football guard John Bauer. Michigan ruled out Bob Jewell, 6-5 freshman basketball center and Ralph Kaufmann, reserve forward, and the University of Louisville did the same to its seven-foot basketball ace, Bob Peterson.

Syracuse gave the heave-ho to football halfback John Colerci; St. John's of Brooklyn dropped basketball center and Jim Coyle, who had played 14 varsity games as a freshman this winter, and Penn State dropped two of its better football players, Paul Anders and Ted Shattuck, and its star quarter miler, Ollie Sax.

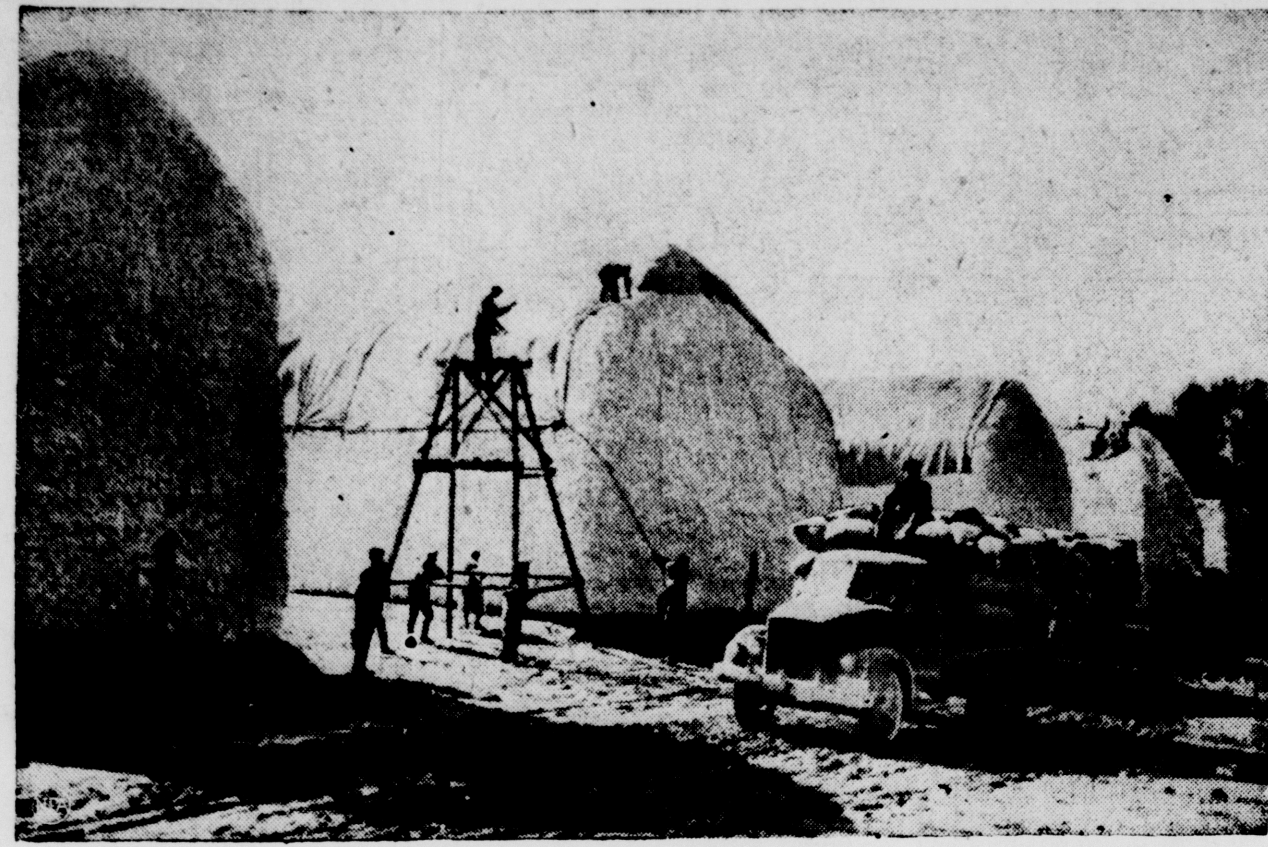

Scouts To Help Get Out Voters

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America plan a mammoth drive to get every qualified citizen registered — and to the polls — in 1952.

The big plan was discussed at a breakfast attended by such Washington bigwigs as Supreme Court Justice Clark, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and a score of congressmen.

Dr. Arthur A. A. Schuck, chief Scout executive, said the Scouts plan to distribute 1,000,000 postcards, urging citizens to register. Then, as election time rolls around, the Scouts will hang 30,000,000 liberty bells on door-knobs, urging everyone to vote.

Thirteen Eagle Scouts, representing the nation's 2,950,000 Scouts and leaders, are here to report to President Truman on the 42nd anniversary of the organization. He's the honorary president of the Scouts.

Anne Morgan Millions Will To Secretary

NEW YORK — (AP) — The late Miss Anne Morgan, said to have been one of the richest women in the world, willed almost half her estate to her secretary.

The will of the late J. Pierpont Morgan's spinster daughter was filed for probate in Surrogate's court. Miss Morgan died at the age of 78 on Jan. 29 at her Mt. Kisco, N. Y., estate.

When Miss Morgan's father died, he left an estimated $100 million to his four children. Miss Morgan had said she lived on three million dollar trust fund.

Her nephew-in-law, Paul G. Pennoyer, co-executor with Miss Rogers, said it was "impossible at this time to estimate the value of the estate."

The document stipulated that half the residuary estate go to Miss Daisy F. Rogers, secretary who also had been employed by Miss Morgan's mother. Miss Rogers also was named as an executor.

The remainder of the estate went to other employees, charitable organizations and the mayor of Blerancourt, France, where Miss Morgan maintained a magnificent home.

Cement Demand High; Alpena Plant Asks Expansion Approval

ALPENA, Mich. — (AP) — The Huron Portland Cement Co. announced today it is pressing for government approval of an expansion program.

The program would tie in the company's recent acquisition of a fourth vessel.

A company spokesman said government action still is pending.

United States is prepared to accept the first two points, but will balk at the third, which could include such subjects as the future of Formosa.

The plenary session on armistice agenda item five is set for 10 a. m., Saturday (8 p. m., EST Friday) in Panmunjom.

Staff officers still are trying to reach an agreement on the two other remaining agenda items—truce supervision and prisoner exchange.

Neither group made noticeable progress Friday.

Officers working on the supervision question devoted most of their one hour and 53 minutes session to discussing troop rotations and ports of entry.

Both sides refused to budge. The Reds held out for inspection at three ports of entry on either side of the battle line and a monthly troop rotation ceiling of 25,000 men. The U. N. argued for 10 ports of entry and a rotation ceiling of 40,000.

He was travelling aboard the liner Queen Mary, due at Southampton next Wednesday. His wife stayed behind in New York.

It was a somber Duke who boarded the ship here last night, a black band of mourning on his arm.

"This voyage," he said, "is indeed sad—and it is all the sadder for me because I am undertaking it alone."

Beside him stood his Duchess—the American for whom he abdicated his throne.

Elizabeth Takes Over As Monarch Of Great Britain

clad figure at 11 a. m. (6 a. m., EST) on the balcony of historic St. James' palace read the accession council's proclamation declaring a second young Bess "queen of this realm and of her other realms and territories, head of the commonwealth, defender of the faith."

Guards Intone Anthem
Packed thousands, somber in their mourning for the late King George VI, stood to attention as the coldstream guards intoned the majestic national anthem — now "God Save The Queen."

Through London and the commonwealth batteries boomed royal salutes.

Britain, her colonies and the commonwealth were formally under the reign of a woman for the first time since Queen Victoria died 51 years ago.

Brought Back 4000 Miles
Earlier, in a 20-minute ceremony inside the ancient palace, Elizabeth had appeared before her privy council of 399 high court and political leaders to promise that she would "always work, as my father did throughout his reign, to uphold constitutional government and to advance the happiness and prosperity of my peoples, spread as they are all the world over."

Later today the Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, planned to hurry to the bier of her dead father, King George VI, whose passing early Wednesday brought her back 4,000 miles from East Africa.

Dressed in the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, the body of the late King lay in an oak coffin at Sandringham House, the royal estate 130 miles away, where he died. Mourning him there were his widow, the Queen Mother Elizabeth, and his younger daughter, Princess Margaret.

Pledged To Serve
The accession council announced that the new Queen, in her plaid today, made this statement:

"Your Royal Highness, my lords, ladies and gentlemen:

"By the sudden death of my dear father, I am called to assume the duties and responsibility of sovereignty.

"At this time of deep sorrow it is a profound consolation to me to be assured of the sympathy which you and all my peoples feel toward me, to my mother, and my sister, and to the other members of my family.

"My father was our revered and beloved head as he was of the wider family of his subjects. The grief which his loss brings is shared among us all.

"My heart is too full for me to say more to you today than that I shall always work, as my father did throughout his reign, to uphold constitutional government and to advance the happiness and prosperity of my peoples, spread as they are all the world over.

"I know that in my resolve to follow his shining example of service and devotion, I shall be inspired by the loyalty and affection of those whose queen I have been called to be, and by the counsel of their elected Parliaments.

"I pray that God will help me to discharge worthily this heavy task that has been laid upon me so early in my life."

Churchill Present
The 20-minute accession proceedings took place in the scarlet-curtained entire room of St. James' palace.

There were 192 councillors present. They remained standing all through the ceremony.

Prime Minister Churchill was there, and standing by was the new Queen's 30-year-old husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. King George had made him a member of the privy council last Dec. 4, so he was automatically a member of the accession council.

At his side was the Duke of Gloucester, King George's younger brother.

Elizabeth entered the palace by the garden entrance and first went to the white and gold throne room. She wore mourning.

After making her accession declaration she took an oath to safeguard the security of the Church of Scotland.

She sat down for only a few minutes to sign this oath. She remained standing while the council approved orders in council formalizing the start of her reign.

Burial Next Friday
When the ceremony ended, she returned by car to her home, Clarence House near Buckingham palace, which soon will be her London residence.

As the anthem ended the ceremonies at St. James' palace, a 41-gun salute from the royal household artillery boomed out in Hyde Park a mile away. All over Britain flags which had fluttered at half staff since the death of King George were hauled to the top of their standards. There they will fly for six hours in celebration and honor of the new Queen before dipping again to half staff in mourning until the king is buried next Friday.

The public proclamation followed quickly the 20-minute meeting of the new Queen with the council, to whom she made the traditional pledges to uphold the constitution and be a good and faithful sovereign.

After the official proclamation was read from the palace balcony, other heralds in 15th century dress proclaimed it from Charing Cross, site of an ancient crossroads in mid-London; from just inside the Temple Bar, one-time western gateway when London was a walled city a mile square, and from the steps of the pillared Royal Exchange in the center of that old city.

In the historic old Tower of London it was proclaimed a fifth time by Col. James Carkeet, the Tower's governor, standing in the courtyard in the middle of a square formed by the "Beefeaters"—red-clad yeomen of the guard.

A 62-gun accession salute boomed across the River Thames from the tower guns after he finished.

Elizabeth displayed her queenly qualities when she returned, pale but composed, in yesterday's gathering dusk to the homeland she left just one week and four hours earlier on a holiday and state tour with her husband. It was to have taken them around the world, through Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand.

There was a heavy sadness to her eyes, but she showed no outward effect of her grief nor of the burdening weight of new responsibilities.

Elizabeth at once approved the arrangements for her father's funeral which were made by her councillors. The last service and burial will take place at St. George's Chapel at Windsor a week from today.

A gun carriage escorted by the Royal Horse Artillery will bear the plain oak coffin from Sandringham to a funeral train on Monday. In London it will again be borne on an artillery carriage to the high vaulted chamber of Westminster Hall, to lie in state in the palace where Parliament sits.

The ancient stone hall dating from the days of William the Conqueror, nearly a thousand years ago, will be opened from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m., on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday so that the citizens may pass by the bier.

On Friday morning there will be a state funeral procession. And then a train will bear the royal coffin to Windsor, where an ancient royal castle stands atop a hill of stone in the peaceful valley of the Thames River.

The King will be buried within the castle's St. George's Chapel, resting place for the bones of many another sovereign.

There are buried the late King's father and every other British monarch from the days of George III, except for the last reigning Queen, Victoria.

NEW YORK — (AP) — A quiet rise carried the Stock Market up only moderately today with buying emphasis on individual issues scattered throughout the list.

Issues popular with buyers were up between 1 and 2 points while the bulk of the list was from small fractions lower to major fractions higher.

Paramount Pictures was up more than a point and other radio-television issues did well. This came in the midst of reports that the National Production Authority may lift the ban on production of color television sets.

The move was initiated by a television subsidiary of Paramount. American Cyanamid was another showing better than a point gain. The company reported it has developed a more efficient method for producing hydrocortisone, one of the wonder drugs.

Winnie Ruth Back At Hospital In Phoenix, Arizona

Dr. Dean Archer, clinical director, said later Mrs. Judd was "scratched and battered looking." He said her eyebrows had been plucked and her already dyed red hair had been newly tinted.

All day there had been reports that she would give herself up if she could talk to the county grand jury.

It was learned that two unidentified men and two equally unidentified state hospital employees had conferred about the hour she would surrender.

Mrs. Judd apparently was driven by automobile to the home of the asylum superintendent just outside the grounds of the big asylum.

Auto Not Identified
As midnight approached, she rapped on the door of Dr. Conway's residence. When he answered, she announced softly: "Well, I'm back."

The car which Dr. Conway said he was sure had brought her back disappeared without anyone getting a look at it.

Winnie Ruth now 48, escaped the gallows by 72 hours in 1933 when she was adjudged insane after being convicted of first degree murder.

In 1947 there were six income tax returns filed with the Bureau of Internal Revenue whose adjusted gross income was at least $5 million.
